To Rush Corona Del Mar-Laguna Road

WILL OPEN BIDS ON AUG. 18

Project Last to Be Undertaken Until New Finance Method Worked Out

CONTRACT TO COVER 8 MILES OF HIGHWAY

Work Aggregating $750,000 Let to Date By State Commission

A decision by the state highway commission to call for bids on the contract for building the new Coast highway from Corona Del Mar to Laguna Beach, and the information that this project will be the last road construction attempted by the state until a new method of financing is evolved, were announced today in a telegram received here from Nelson T. Edwards, of Orange, member of the highway commission, now at San Francisco.

Edwards' message stated that the highway commission, in session at San Francisco yesterday, decided to advertise July 21 for bids on the Corona Del Mar-Laguna Beach contract. The bids will be opened August 18, he stated. This contract, it was said, covers eight miles of the Orange county coast line.

At the same time Edwards made known that the commission, having awarded contracts aggregating $750,000, would undertake no further road building in the state until a new method of financing road construction is worked out.

Through the activity of Edwards, as a member of the highway commission, the Orange county contract was provided for before the commission closed its construction program.

CLAIMS LABOR SUPPORT FOR L'FOLLETTE

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Organized labor's 5,000,000 votes will be swung behind Senator Robert M. La Follette, his campaign leaders claimed today.

The American Federation of Labor will sanction—if not openly endorse—the La Follette candidacy when its executive council meets at Atlantic City the first of August, according to the progressive union.

While Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, is opposed to endorsement of independent political movements, the La Follette chiefs have been informed that the labor body will ring a bell when it wants to be heard.

The men know this and I am sure that the effect of the labor vote will be felt stronger next November than at any previous time.

There are 3,000,000 members of the American federation of labor. There are more than a million more workers not members of that body. These two groups control at least a million more votes through their families—making the estimated present strength of the labor vote about 5,000,000.

$50,000 Award Given Vet Who Lost Legs

PATERSON, N. J., July 17.—The largest award ever made in the New Jersey courts for the loss of limbs went to James T. McKeon, 26, of 80 money street, a war veteran, when a jury today allowed him $50,000.

Only six days after his discharge from the army McKeon, on Sept. 27, 1921, had both legs severed above the knees by a Lackawanna freight train at the South Mill street crossing. McKeon sued for $100,000, charging negligence in that the gate-man did not lower the gates as the train approached. The trial lasted four days.

2 Firemen Trapped Under Wall After Flames Block Single Exit from Apartment.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 17.—Two firemen and six negroes were dead and twenty-eight negroes were being sought following an explosion and fire in a negro apartment house here today. All of the missing are believed to have perished.

Officials said the apartment had but one narrow exit and the explosion, which wrecked the building, is believed to have cut off all chance of escape. The two-story brick structure was enveloped by fire immediately after the blast. Firemen were trapped under a falling wall.

COAST FOREST FIRE CRISIS PASSES

(San Francisco Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The Pacific coast forest fire crisis seemed passing, at least temporarily, today.

Reports during the morning showed three new fires in California had broken out during the night but all were of minor importance.

In Idaho and Washington the situation was greatly improved. In Montana fires which burned fiercely last week, had gained considerable headway and 800 men were on the fire lines battling against the "red plague" in the Nez Perce and Kootenai forests. These fires threatened to spread to the Blackfoot reserve.

Seven towns, threatened yesterday by the fires in the Pend Oreille section of Washington, were pronounced out of danger today.

One new fire in Oregon, on Beaver Creek, Clackamas county, was the extent of the progress made by the "fire demon" in that state.

In the Angeles and Santa Barbara forests, where great fires burned for ten days, but one conflagration of any importance remained uncontrolled. It was in King's canyon of the Santa Barbara forest.

The new fires in California were near Silver Lake, Shasta county, another in the Klamath National forest and a third on the American river near Applegate.

All proceeds are turned over to the Sunday schools.

WILL CLOSE CLEVELAND FOREST

Fire Menace Reason For Drastic Step Taken By County

The Cleveland National forest in Orange county will be closed to the public until November 1 and extra guards will be placed in the forest to see that the ban is enforced. Such was the announcement made today by Leon O. Whitsell, county supervisor. The forest fire menace is the reason for the action.

Three resorts in Orange county will be permitted to operate until November. They are located at Silverado, Modjeska's Home and Trabuco.

One thousand dollars has been appropriated by the county supervisors to defray the expenses of these extra guards who will be appointed by Forest Supervisor H. I. Snider. The action on the part of the Orange county supervisors is identical with other counties in the state.

In Orange county, people will be prohibited from going into the national forest. Campers and pleasure seekers may stay at any of the three resorts named, but they will not be permitted to penetrate further into the forests.

L. A. WATER SUPPLY DUE FOR PROBING

Grand Jury Likely To Be Asked Whether Lack of Fluid Could Merit Prosecution.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—A grand jury investigation of Los Angeles' water supply is probable, according to the statement today by District Attorney A. A. Keyes.

The investigation, Keyes said, will revolve about the question of whether the city's water situation is sufficiently serious to warrant criminal procedure. For the last two weeks the district attorney has been checking data concerning storage in city reservoirs, prospects of water shortage and management of the water department of the city.

ACTRESS' ESTRANGED MATE FLOORS THEATER MAGNATE IN L. A. DOWNTOWN CLASH

Wealthy Husband of Ora Carew, Former Screen Star, Lay In Wait For Wife and Alexander Pantages, He Tells Investigators of 3 a. m. Row

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—With Ora Carew, prominent screen and stage actress, her husband, John C. Howard, and Alexander Pantages, western vaudeville theater magnate, the central figures, a clash in a downtown parking station early today landed the whole party at the police station for questioning.

Following the clash, Howard announced that he would bring suit against Pantages today for $100,000 damages, claiming alienation of his wife's affections.

Evelyn Carew, sister of the actress, and Ben H. Rosenberg, local manager of the Metro Film exchange, also were figures in the party which Howard disrupted with a few well-aimed blows at the men.

Miss Carew is headlining this week at Pantages' local theater in a skit termed "Quality Unknown." It marks her return to the stage, following several months of more or less turbulent married life with Howard. They were married December 12, 1922, and separated June 19, last.

Leave in Sedan

Howard, according to his story to police, had been watching his wife ever since they parted. Last night at 10:40 o'clock he saw her and her sister leave the Pantages theater stage door and depart in a closed automobile.

Through the night he kept vigil, and his watch was repaid at 2:40 a. m. today when a sedan drove into the parking space. From it stepped Miss Carew, her sister, Evelyn, also an actress, Pantages and Rosenberg.

Howard, son of a Boston salad manufacturer and reported to be a millionaire, approached the party. An argument started, during which Miss Carew, Howard said, declared she was no longer interested in him, and questioned his right to question her.

Pantages attempted to pacify Howard by explaining that the party had been to witness a preview. A well placed blow landed the theater magnate on the ground police said they were told, and when Rosenberg stepped up he was floored.

Women Seek Police

Miss Carew and her sister ran toward the street shouting for the police. Howard went after some himself, and found a party of detectives eating in a nearby cafe. He returned to the battleground with the officers, where a general discussion of the events was held. No arrests were made.

Ora and Evelyn took a taxicab for Miss Carew's home, stopping at the Hollywood police station en route with a request that a policeman be assigned to protect them through the few hours of darkness remaining.

Howard said he has been East since he and his wife separated.

Dorris was released on $50,000 bail, which was later cancelled. He is now in the county jail.

GRAIN PRICE HITS 5-YEAR HIGH MARK

Another Rally Follows As Reports on Potential Exports Received

CHICAGO, July 17.—All grains and provisions except July corn and future lard deliveries reached the highest prices of the last five years on the Chicago board of trade today.

Wheat closed at $1.20 1/4 a bushel, a gain of 3/4 cents during today's trading, and December brought $1.32.

December corn closed at 94 1/2 an advance of 4 1/2 cents.

The big advance in wheat prices was largely based on a prediction by the United States department of agriculture that this country would be called upon to export large quantities of wheat to Mediterranean points, where the crop is almost a total failure.

Further reports of crop damage in Canada added to the bullish spirit of the wheat, pit and corn and oats followed the rally.

U. S. CONSULATE IN BRAZIL IN CANNON ZONE

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Shells fell within a block of the American consulate at Sao Paulo when federal forces were bombarding the stronghold of the Brazilian revolt on July 12, the state department was advised today in a cable from Sao Paulo dated July 12.

The consulate was undamaged, however, the message stated.

Six persons were in the Hotel Dixeste when a shell struck the building, the message said. The industrial center, Braz, is being bombed and is virtually deserted.

REBELLION CAUSES ACUTE SITUATION IN BRAZIL

BUENOS AIRES, July 17.—The situation in Brazil, where the army of the state of Sao Paulo has rebelled, is very acute, the newspaper La Razon understands from an official source today.

The rebellion was prepared by important chieftains of the Brazilian army, according to the newspaper's information, with the aid of high political leaders of the state of Sao Paulo, who are in contact with the revolutionary elements of other states.

"A big banking house believed to have official connections" is financing the revolt.

The revolutionary troops comprise about 6000 men, with abundant war materials.

The movement has as its primary purpose the establishment of a new federal regime and will demand complete amnesty for participants in the uprising in Rio de Janeiro in 1922.

Federal troops sent against the rebels so far have not displayed great energy. La Razon's informant adds.

"We have reliable information from private sources indicating an important development in the situation is imminent," La Razon said.

A complete censorship on telegrams, telephones, radio and the mails has been placed in effect throughout Brazil, it was reported by other sources.

Censors Strike News

Rio de Janeiro newspapers of July 12 reached Montevideo last night filled with white spaces where the censors had stricken out matter displeasing to the government. The newspapers contained nothing but official comments and editorials condemning the Sao Paulo movement.

Official advice to the Brazilian embassy today said that the federal troops had obtained possession of a great part of Sao Paulo. The message said federal forces had reached the municipal theater, which is in the very center of Sao Paulo.

TORTURE OF 'KILLER' NOT JUSTIFIED

Remorse Leads to Attempt at Suicide and Clearing of Mysterious Tragedy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 17.—Tortured for 22 years by the memory of a murder he never committed, until he finally tried vainly to take his life at Portland, Ore., officials announced here today that they will not seek the return of Oliver Cameron, ill in a Portland, Ore., hospital.

Messages from Portland declaring Cameron had tried to kill himself there because of a murder twenty-two years ago in Birmingham, revealed a strange tragedy here today. For search of the records showed that William J. Gay, whom he shot in a quarrel here in 1902, apparently never died.

Officers said today their search for a murder indictment has not yet been completed but apparently none exists. They believe that Gay recovered from his wound and that Cameron was indicted only for the assault upon him.

FLED AFTER SHOOTING, AND JOINED NAVY

PORTLAND, Ore., July 17.—Lying on a cot in the emergency hospital here today, Oliver Cameron, 51, is waiting to learn whether he must return to Birmingham, Ala., and stand trial for the slaying of U. J. Gay in the Southern city, twenty-two years ago.

Tuesday evening, two men in a launch in the Willamette river were startled when a body came hurtling down from a high railroad bridge. An immediate rescue was effected and the would-be suicide was rushed to the hospital. Questioned there by police, he gave his name as Oliver Cameron and told the story of his twenty-two year flight from his crime.

According to Cameron, he had quarreled with Gay following a lawsuit and on January 2, 1902, when Gay threatened him with a knife, Cameron drew a gun and shot his attacker, in self-defense, he said.

Panic-stricken after the shooting, Cameron fled to Philadelphia and enlisted in the navy under the name of Dennis Seegers.

He was discharged from the navy four years later and moved to Seattle, where he married. His wife, he said, divorced him in 1915 and since that time he has been a wanderer in various Pacific coast cities.

Local authorities have telegraphed to Birmingham for instructions.

"30" BULLETINS

LONDON, July 17.—Houston, Texas, was unanimously selected by the International Advertising convention today as the 1925 convention city.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—William J. Bryan, Democratic party leader for the past 25 years, arrived in Los Angeles today to visit his daughter, Mrs. A. Hargrave of Hollywood. Bryan appeared slightly tired as a result of the strain of the recent Democratic convention, but smiled broadly when his relatives greeted him at the depot. The Commoner refused to discuss politics.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Channing that the Chicago White Sox had sold them a disabled pitcher in Ira Courtney, the Vernon Tigers of the Pacific Coast League filed suit this afternoon for a return of the purchase price, said to be $10,000, with Baseball Commissioner Landis.

Rush Gun Play Trio to Aid; None Needed

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Davis Prettyman, 39, came home from work to find his pretty 21-year-old wife, Ruth, serving tea to Sidney West, 25, of New York.

Davis drew his revolver and a general bombardment followed, only ending when the husband put the weapon to his chest and pulled the trigger a final time, falling beside the bodies of his wife and West.

At a hospital, doctors and nurses searched in vain for bullet wounds.

The revolver had been loaded with blank cartridges and the "victims" had fainted.

REJOINS HER MATE; CRASH DEATH NEAR

Wife Reconciled After Seven Years; Is Seriously Injured Next Day; Two Men Held.

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., July 17.—Mrs. M. J. Loughname of Los Angeles lay in a hospital here today, probably fatally injured in an automobile accident while riding with her husband, to whom she had just been reconciled after seven years' separation.

The accident occurred on the Black point cutoff when an automobile driven by Eugene Mathewson and K. H. Brix of Fresno crashed into the Loughname machine.

Mrs. Loughname, who was hurled to the highway, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Loughname said he called on his wife in San Francisco yesterday to persuade her to return to his home. She consented and they were driving happily through the Marin county hills when the crash came.

Both Mathewson and Brix are being held in jail at Santa Rosa pending the outcome of Mrs. Loughname's injuries.

WOMAN CLINGS TO P. E. CAR; IS KILLED

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Clinging perilously to the steps of a speeding inbound Pacific Electric train, Mrs. Bert Toland, 33, of this city was fatally injured today just outside the city limits of Glendale as she either fell or leaped to the right-of-way.

Passing motorists picked the woman up and rushed her to the Receiving hospital, where she died shortly after a major operation was performed in a vain effort to save her life.

J. W. Gould of Glendale, who followed the train in his automobile, told officers he saw the woman perched on the steps of the swaying train for several minutes before she fell.

PROBE PASTOR'S DEATH

BANNING, Cal., July 17.—Coroner's inquest was to be held here this afternoon over the mangled remains of R. O. Hadley, evangelist of Oregon City, Ore., killed late yesterday when he fell from a Southern Pacific passenger train near Whitewater, 12 miles east of here.

Cause of the accident is a mystery. Hadley was traveling with E. A. Allen, of Kent, Wash., a friend, who missed him. A search revealed that the evangelist was not on the train. No one had seen him leap or fall from a vestibule.

Allen left the train at the first stop, and traveled back along the track, discovering Hadley's mangled remains along the right of way. He had fallen under the cars and his body was cut to pieces.

$4,692,304.085 CAL. CASH TAXABLE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17.—California is worth $5,716,785,815, of which $4,692,304,085 is subject to taxation, according to compilations from the county assessment rolls for 1923, made public today by Controller Ray L. Riley.

The balance is made up of $725,662,270 representing operative property and $298,919,460 representing the value of railroads as assessed by the state board of equalization.

The general county taxes levied against this property was $96,201,658, and of this sum $57,470,173 was levied against property within corporate limits. To produce this amount an average rate of $1.90 on every $100 of assessed valuation would have to be made.

FIRST SPEECH HAS FAMILIAR EARMARKS

Former President's Staff of Informers Certain to Have Influence

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 17.—Headquarters of John W. Davis is taking on the atmosphere of Woodrow Wilson campaign days.

High on the roster of those whose advice he is seeking in mapping his campaign and writing his keynote speech of acceptance are men who worked in the van of Wilson's fights for the White House in 1912 and 1916.

There is Frank Polk, a close adviser of the late ex-President, under-secretary of state in the second Wilson administration; there is Colonel E. M. House, for years an intimate confidant, friend and counselor of this war President; there is Gordon Auchincloss, son-in-law of Colonel House. Davis is to spend the next ten days at the summer home of Charles Dana Gibson, one of the closest friends of Colonel House.

Other Friends

Norman Davis, who up to the time of Wilson's death, was one of his closest friends, is in constant touch with the Democratic nominee. Henry Morgenthau, one of the original apostles of the Wilson campaign in 1912, is a Davis adviser. Daniel Roper, head of the internal revenue bureau during the Wilson administration and for years a political adviser of Wilson, is a leader now in the Davis campaign.

There appears little doubt that these men will have a telling effect upon Davis' enunciation of his governmental principles. The fact that most of them have long sponsored American entrance into the league of nations already has aroused wide interest in how the candidate will treat this subject in his forthcoming acceptance speech.

Speech Quoted

In the only semi-political speech Davis has made to date, one delivered last night to a group of friends who met to welcome him at his Locust valley, Long Island, home—there was a genuine Wilson touch to his utterance.

"I believe," he said, "all free government comes from the people up and not from any source down to the people. This country is, and will remain what the great masses of people care to make it. We have thrust our all on the principle that the safety of this country lies in the keeping of its individual citizens. If we begin man for man and woman for woman to do our duty at home we can safely trust the labor of the masses will show itself in the happiness of the home."

GERMAN CHAOS LOOMS, SAYS DR. HERGT

BERLIN, July 17.—"The Marx-Stresemann government will be swept away within a month on account of the impending financial and economic breakdown in Germany which the government is unable to ward off."

That is the prediction and answer of Dr. Oscar Hergt, leader of the national party, when asked regarding reports that the nationalists are planning a putsch to overthrow the government.

"The national party will have nothing to do with any putsch," said Dr. Hergt. "In fact, the climax can be expected without any resort to force. Financial disaster in Germany can be averted only through foreign assistance. I see little chance for Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann obtaining that assistance in time to avert the disaster."

ALLIED PARLEY MEN OFFERED U. S. AID

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LONDON, July 17.—American Ambassador Kellogg and Colonel James A. Logan Jr. placed their services at the disposal of all three inter-allied conference committees today—ready to sit in and speed the preliminary work of the conference wherever their presence.

There was an air of "strictly business" in the MacDonald keynote—about the deliberations today and an atmosphere of mingled good will and anxiety at the foreign office.

The conference will not meet in plenary session again until the committees have ironed out differences of opinion over agenda and other matters in dispute.

Today's London newspapers stress the perils of failure, but profess to take heart from the participation of the Americans.

GERMANY URGES POLITICAL UNITY GUARANTEE.
BERLIN, July 17.—A demand that the Allies promise that the political unity of Germany will be re-established was sent to Premier MacDonald by the Marx government today.

The German memorandum which was timed to reach MacDonald while the inter-allied conference on reparations was in session, also asked that a time be set for withdrawal of French and Belgian troops from the Ruhr and the evacuation of Duisberg and Düsseldorf.

Loads Coffin With Pillow and Brandy, Then Hangs Self

BERNAY, France, July 17.—Elaborate preparations for his final rest were made by Ernest Deshayes, a laborer, before taking his life here recently. First he invested all his savings in a handsome coffin. When it was delivered he placed in it a soft pillow, a hot water bottle and a flask of old brandy. Then, dressing himself in his best, he hanged himself, choosing for the purpose a peach tree in full bloom.

U. S. AVIATORS DUE FOR ANOTHER REST

BROUGH, England, July 17.—Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and his comrades on the United States army world flight arrived safely at Brough today, they having flown from Croydon, London, outside London, in two hours.

The leading plane, piloted by Smith, landed at 1:10 p. m., the others a moment later. They left Croydon at 11:10 a. m. Here the flyers will remain until July 25 while their planes are equipped with pontoons for the homeward journey across the Atlantic via the Orkneys, Iceland, Greenland and Labrador.

But 7000 miles remain to be covered before the flyers will have completed their world journey.

A small group of British air service officials waved farewell and "bon voyage" as the three American planes took the air from Croydon airport, soared southward to gain altitude and then swung about and made off to Brough.

N. Y. Officer Held, Boy Slayer Suspect

NEW YORK, July 17.—Patrolman Harold M. Hagan is today being held on suspicion of homicide while the district attorney's office investigates the death of Leo Vis-sa, 7, who was shot last Monday. AIR HERO SLAIN BY BANDITS HE BEFRIENDED

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CHERAW, S. C., July 17.—The body of Major Samuel H. McLeary, war hero, killed by an army deserter and his companion whom he had befriended, was found near here today.

The body was found in a clump of bushes just off the main road at a spot about ten miles from Cheraw as described by Mortimer H. King, deserter from the army, in a detailed confession made to the department of justice and county authorities at Asheville.

A party of government officers who hastened here from Asheville to check up details of King's story found the body. King said Major McLeary was killed after he had given King and a companion a ride in his automobile.

McLeary was enroute from Norfolk, Va., to Charleston, S. C., at the time of the holdup and murder.

The confession was made public after army officers, department of justice agents and county authorities had questioned Mortimer H. King of Canton, an alleged army deserter, for two days.

King, calm and nonchalant, stoutly denied any knowledge of the crime when first questioned. After an army shirt with the label and laundry mark the same as on Major McLeary's clothing was found in his home, King wavered in his story and finally broke down and cried out "that's his shirt; we did it."

Italian Royalties Photograph Fire Near Their Palace

ROME, July 17.—A big fire broke out in the premises adjoining the Villa Savoia, where the Italian royal family resides.

During the fire the members of the royal household took numerous photographs of the scene.

SARCASM FOR PILLS
LONDON, July 17.—"Pills, pills! HORSE FLIES
PARIS, July 17.—The first horse in history to fly through the air was yearling brought from Paris to a farm in Holland in a plane that had been especially fitted up as a horse box. The horse was accompanied by a groom.

Policeman Fined For Spooning in Public With Wife

NEW YORK, July 16.—One shouldn't make love to one's wife in New Jersey.

At least that was the inference to be drawn from action taken by the North Bergen town council, which fined Patrolman David McCarthy 30 days' pay because he was caught "spooning" with Mrs. McCarthy recently.

The complaint against him was made by Mrs. Ida Gerberaux, who said she saw the exchange of marital affections occurring near her home.

Patrolman McCarthy, who has been on the North Bergen force for 14 years, is now convinced that the Jersey blue laws are something more than a subject for comic artists.

The next day Mrs. Howard, now answering only to the name of Miss Carew, filed suit for divorce.

DECIDES EGG CAME BEFORE CHICKEN

CHICAGO, July 17.—The original hen came from an egg and the original egg did not come from the hen.

Such is the paradox answer which science makes to the age-old riddle:

"Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

Prof. Conrad E. Thoraldson of the department of zoology of Northwestern university made answer in an off-hand manner.

"I realize that I am settling one of the most momentous questions of all time," said Professor Thoraldson, "but my research work compels me to reiterate that the hen comes from the egg and not the other way around."

"The hen carries new germ cells, which produce other eggs, and presumably, new hens, but all hark back to the original germ cell, which science calls the zygote.

"It is the same in human beings."

"The person dies, but the germ cell lives on in a circuit as complete as eternity."

"Life is a continuous stream of cell divisions extending back to that remote unknown period when the individual may die, but the germ cells live on as vehicles by which hereditary traits are transmitted from generation to generation."

"Parental influence," declares Professor Thoraldson, "is fallacy."

"The mother," he continued, "might as well construct a cradle to influence a prospective son to become a carpenter as to study music to bring forth a musical prodigy. As long as the embryonic child is well matured, that is all the mother has to do with it."

Land lighthouses, to warn night travelers of dangerous ground, are to be established in Victoria, Australia.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Southern California's biggest criminal was in jail here today. Not in point of criminal record but in stature is Lyle Couchman.

the record handit crammed into a jail cell. He stands six feet six inches tall and weighs 204 pounds.

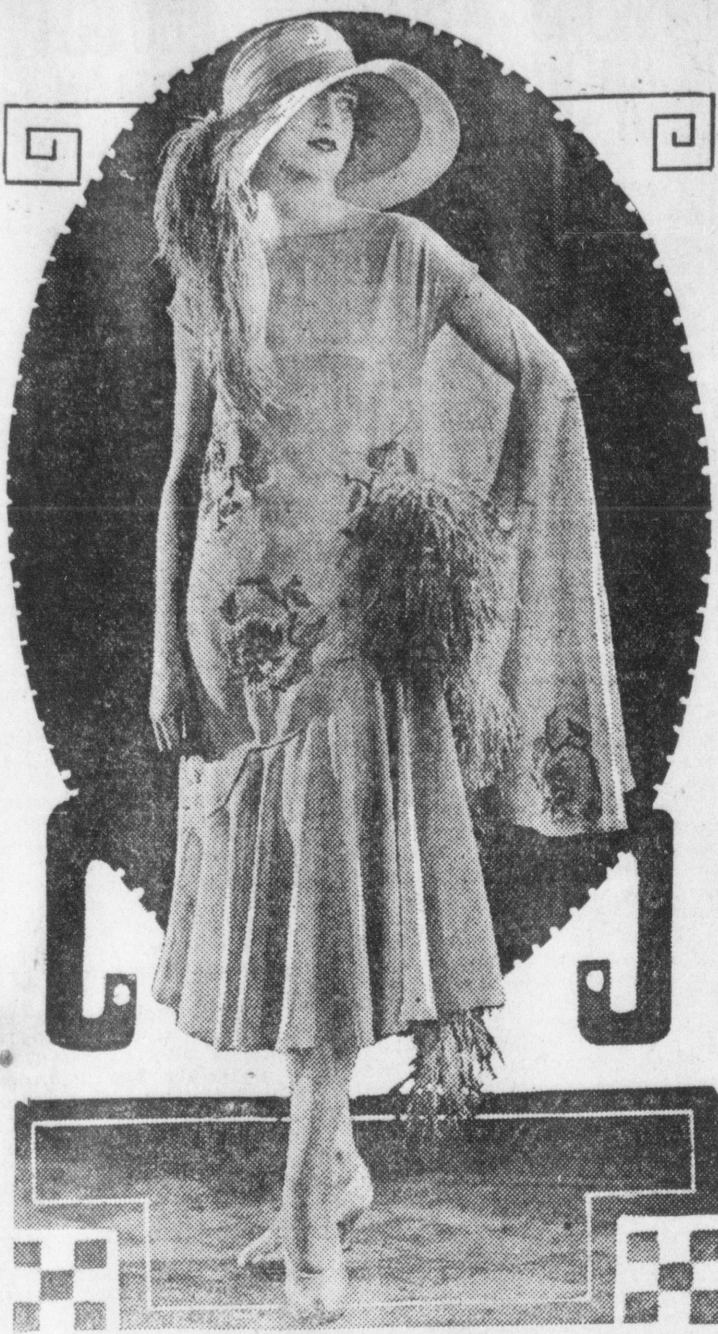

Couchman, police say, has admitted being a member of a robbery gang that committed a series of crimes in and around Los Angeles.

Rose-colored Crepe Forms Charming Toilette Carefully Chosen By Very Summery Summer Girl

Here's the summer girl at her summeriest in a gown of rose-colored crepe embroidered in deeper tones and fluffed up with much ostrich. There's a cape-like arrangement in the back which may be worn as a scarf over one arm, if desired. The wide circular flounce which gives such fullness at the hemline is one of its most important touches sartorially. Paris is tiring a little of the straightline frock and is working out very interesting effects with circular lines.

G. O. P. CENTRAL COMMITTEE FIGHT ON

Two full tickets were in the field today for the seven places on the Republican central committee devoted to the first district, embracing the city of Santa Ana.

Getting "under the wire" today, petitions were filed for the nomination of seven candidates, five of whom are at present members of the central committee.

Those filing were: Charles D. Swanner, Dr. R. A. Cushman, S. M. Reinhaus, W. F. Menton, W. C. May, all incumbents, and Z. B. West Jr. and Charles H. Chapman.

Two members of the present committee, Earl Abbey and E. B. Collier, are not candidates for reelection.

Yesterday a rival group had filed nominating petitions, including those of the following: E. T. Maister, William Iverson, N. E. Wray, Dr. W. A. Flood, Joseph Smith, H. Gerrard and J. Sutherland.

W. B. Allen, Anaheim realty dealer, today made the campaign for state assemblyman from Orange county a three-cornered race, by filing his nomination petition as a candidate for the office.

Three candidates are now seeking the Republican nomination, no Democrats having filed petitions. Dr. C. D. Ball, of Santa Ana, present assemblyman, and S. C. Hartman, of Fullerton, had previously filed their petitions.

Allen's nominating petition was circulated by the following verification deputies: C. R. Harrison, George G. Allen, Anaheim; L. W. Thompson, Orange; R. W. Koontz, La Habra; A. L. McCoy, Fullerton; M. C. Fiscus, Brea; J. G. Sutherland, Santa Ana.

Cemetery Bandits Wound L. A. Victim

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—A volley of shots from two highwaymen will probably claim the life of Louis Dubois, 35, who refused to stop when they ordered him to turn over all the money in his possession, early today.

The victim was suddenly accosted when the two bandits appeared from among the shadows of trees in the Evergreen cemetery here. Dubois had barely moved when his two assailants opened fire on him.

It was stated at the receiving hospital where a major operation was performed on Dubois that he is not expected to live.

Detectives have begun a widespread search for the bandits.

FALL HAS BAY CITY VACATION PLANNED

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Mrs. Fall, were expected to go to San Diego today, continuing their Southern California vacation. They arrived here yesterday and were met at the train by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Doheny.

Whether Fall's visit has any connection with the recent federal indictment in which he, Doheny and Doheny Jr., and Harry F. Sinclair are named defendants, was a matter for speculation. Frank Hogan, Doheny's attorney, was expected to reach here today.

Former Senator Pomerene, government prosecutor in the oil lease cases, is due the first of the week, and will urge early trial of the Elk Hill suits.

Pick up an Exchange Bargain

PEOPLE looking for odd pieces often pick up rare bargains in our Exchange Department. The furniture displayed there has been used, but much of it is almost like new—sometimes a little re-finishing will put a piece in as good condition as it was new.

Beds, Springs, Davenports, Library and Dining Tables, Dressers, China Cabinets, Book Cases, Baby Cabs, Rockers, Chairs, Refrigerators and Gas Ranges are among the pieces on hand today.

Do You Like to Paint Furniture?

MANY of our women customers like to buy an unfinished piece of furniture and do their own painting and finishing. Breakfast Tables and Chairs, particularly, are favored because of the latitude allowed in color decoration of such pieces.

The work gives one a chance to express artistic inclinations besides producing effects that harmonize with the scheme of breakfast room decoration. Such pieces are very moderate in price.

The J. P. Baumgartners
Lavishly Entertain
Register Family

Never was a happier family gathering than that of yesterday afternoon and evening when some fourscore members of the great Register family enjoyed the hospitality of their "pater-familias" John P.
Baumgartner at Laguna Beach.
Hastening through the details of getting out the Daily Register, the force departed en masse for the beach city as early in the afternoon as possible and upon arrival at the charming home of the Baumgart-ners on the bluff overlooking the sweep of coast towards Dana Point, were greeted by Mr. and Mrs.
Baumgartner and the latter's sister,
Mrs. Ella Palmer.

No details had been overlooked in making the party a success and the home was truly "hospitality house" with all doors flung wide. A survey of the attractive home was a pleasant part of the afternoon and later descent was made to the sandy beach where a few of the guests braved the unusually high waves and enjoyed a more or less strenuous swim to the entertainment of the onlookers.

The terraced lawn was arranged for serving the supper, with small tables covered with immaculate linens. And such a menu! Appetites sharpened by the fresh sea breezes, made short work of fruit cocktail followed by baked ham, Southern sweet potatoes, Lima beans, Spanish style, roasted ears of corn, and as a final course, ice cream, cake, mints and piping hot coffee. W. K. Duffy catered for the feast whose close was brightened by the spectacular sight of the full moon rising above the dark Laguna hills.

Mr. Baumgartner kindled a fire on the broad hearth of the livingroom and many guests lingered to chat in the friendly glow and enjoy the vista of moonlit sea revealed through the great windows. Enjoyable too was the perusing of the "Line-O-Razz," the little publication which is always an anticipated feature of every Register family party.
Later in the evening the guests repaired to the Laguna pavilion where music by the Hollywood orchestra offered an irresistible invitation to dance.

Enjoying the whole delightful evening were the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Baumgartner with Mrs. Palmer and Miss Pauline Chandler of Alhambra, the latter a niece and house-guest of the family; Mr. and

Fashion Notes

If the well-dressed woman is changeable in her modes of neckwear, fashion has a mood to fit this demand for variety. For the strictly tailored suit, there are new semi-tailored effects including blouses, guimpes, vests, and blouses in washable silks, crepe de chine—and above everything else lace.

"If it's lace, it's good" is a slogan that may well be applied to the present season. Lace of a thousand varieties, patterns, materials, for wear with the tailored suite,
as well as summer two piece suit effects. Some of the vesties are made of a combination of lace and voile. Valenciennes lace is among the most popular of materials.
The patterns range from a semi-tailored panel effect with perhaps a jabot at the side, and a smart bow at the collar—to the most frilly and fussy of garments. Many of the new lace models in neckwear have cuffs and sleeves to match.
Vests are all lengths. All patterns shapes and sizes according to the wish of the wearer.

News Notes of Interest To Women

Charming Details Are Told of Wedding In Orange Home

Of interest to a wide circle of friends will be the details of a very pretty home wedding in Orange Tuesday evening when Miss Dorothy Barbara Hayward became the bride of Sanford S. Cole of this city at an 8 o'clock ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hayward, 463 South
Cambridge street.

The home, an unusually beautiful and spacious one, wore its brightest aspect for the wedding and was garlanded with summer flowers. The archway between reception hall and living-room was festooned with amaranth and offered a charming setting for the ceremony.

Miss Hayward chose orchid crepe de chine for her wedding gown and made a charming bride in a trio of sisters, for the Misses Lucille and Mary Hayward were her bridesmaids, gowning in smart ta-feta frocks, one of champagne and one of orange.

Mr. Cole was attended by his brother, Burnell Cole as best man and the wedding vows were taken before the Rev. F. T. Porter of the First Christian church of this city. Guests were confined to the members of the two families. It was regretted that Mr. Cole's mother, Mrs. Julia Conover, was ill in her Idaho home and unable to attend her son's wedding.

Appropriate wedding refreshments were served following the period of congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Cole will enjoy a quiet honeymoon in the Hayward home which has been placed at their disposal for the summer while Mr. and Mrs.
Hayward and their family enjoy life at a mountain resort.

Mr. Cole is one of the prominent young business men of this city and is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Sanford, 615 South Broadway.

Eastern Star

At next Monday night's session of Hermosa chapter, O. E. S. the members will have the pleasure of seeing the initiatory work exhibited by the officers of Santa Ana chapter, the latter chapter members to be honor guests, according to an announcement made today by the worthy matron, Mrs. Mabel Rowland.

On the following evening, (Tuesday) Mrs. Rowland and her official family will present the floor work for the Anaheim chapter at Anaheim whither the Hermosa folk will motor as guests of honor. Sessions will begin at the usual hour of 8 o'clock.

Missionary Society

Foreign Missionary interest does not wane even in the warm summer months, when so many go a-vacationing, as was attested by the large number attending the recent session in the First Methodist church. The devotional message brought by Mrs. Fanny Lash was original in thought and personally helpful.

Miss Shurza Van Nest accompanied Miss Dorothy Carlett, as she sang the beautiful song, "Friend of Mine," by Roper Sanderson.
Mrs. Finn read a splendid letter from Miss Halfpenny of China who spoke at this auxiliary when home on furlough. It is said of her that she has learned to do the impossible by her ability to do the multitude of daily duties in the far-away land.

Mrs. Brandebury who attended the recent quarterly meeting at Pacific Palisades brought many items of interest. Mrs. Hutchins spoke in behalf of the monthly magazine "The Woman's Missionary Friend."

Mrs. McGarragh then gave the address of the afternoon—an intensive and comprehensive history of Japan and Korea. It might be called "News in a Nutshell" for the vast number of subjects presented brought to those present a more thorough knowledge than ever before of those countries, their peoples, resources, manufactures, educational facilities and missionary advancement.

Flowers used in decorating the church parlor were taken to shut-in members.

A group picnic of all the auxiliaries of the county is being planned for Thursday, July 31, in Birch park. The August meeting will be held at the Newport Beach home of Mrs. P. A. Robinson. The invitation for this day was extended and accepted a year ago.

All the little children of the church who are under eight years of age, are anticipating with pleasure the Little Light Bearers' party that is to be given tomorrow afternoon in the church parlor, by the society, honoring the children and their mothers.

There will be missionary storytelling, games and a program given by the tiny tots themselves. After refreshments will be the annual opening of the children's mite-boxes.

It was stated that fifty-eight missionaries of the Methodist church, now at work in foreign fields, are supported by the offerings of children of the denomination.

Miss Bina M. West, founder and supreme commander of the Woman's Benefit association, has been awarded the honorary degree of Master of Arts by the University of Michigan, "in recognition of her notable success in the administration of a great financial enterprise."

Tea and Tiffin Cheer
Extended to Staff
Of Local Bank

To Miss Alice Parker of the Tea and Tiffin, Laguna, "Auld acquaintance" should never "be forgot" and to that end she planned a delightful evening for her former associates at the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank who were asked to be her dinner guests last night.

Motoring to "Our Village" the group of fourteen (some of the bank force being vacationing and unable to be present) enjoyed a delectable dinner such as is always a feature of the popular Little Tea and Tiffin. After their leisurely enjoyment of the feast, the guests followed where their hostess led, the way taking them to Laguna pavillion where the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing.

Motoring down from here to enjoy Miss Parker's hospitality were
Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brownridge,
Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stafford, W. B.

Calumpit Camp

More than fifty members of Calumpit camp and auxiliary of the United Spanish War veterans enjoyed a steak bake last Tuesday evening at Orange county park.
Each one present furnished and cooked his or her own steak, for which the committee of arrangements were duly grateful.

Members were present, not only from Santa Ana, but also from An-aheim, Fullerton, Brea, Orange, Huntington Beach and Garden Grove and the affair was voted a success and many other doings of a like nature are planned for the summer months.

Junior College Maid
Takes Wedding Vows
To Orange Man

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A.
Goodwin of 798 West Palmyra street, Orange, was the scene of an attractively planned wedding last night when their daughter, Miss Myrna Mylrea plighted her troth to Ervin C. Frevert, also of Orange.

Throughout the home, a lovely decorative effect was attained by the lavish use of pink roses and ferns and in the living room the decorations culminated in a cool and lovely background of ferns and roses for the pretty picture made by the bridal party.

Miss Mylrea was gowning in embrodered georgette in burnt-rose tints and carried an arm cluster of Cecil Brunner buds and maidenhair fern. The impressive ceremony of the Presbyterian church was read by the Rev. M. P. Pearson of Orange, in the presence of relatives and a very few dear friends.

Following the ceremony the bride tossed her bouquet which was caught by her sister, Miss Lucille.
The new Mr. and Mrs. Frevert then led the way to the dining-room where an elaborate wedding dinner was served in four courses at a table lovely with garlands of Cecil Brunner roses. Mrs. Frevert cut and served the bride's cake as part of the final course.

In the late evening the young people were showered with rice, good wishes and old shoes for luck, as they took their departure for a two weeks' honeymoon at Big Bear and other mountain resorts, the bride traveling in tan roshanara crepe with all accessories in harmonizing colors. Upon their return they will be established in Long Beach where Mr. Frevert is employed by the Shell Oil company.

As Miss Mylrea, the bride was a graduate of Santa Ana High school and this year completed her Junior College course. Prominent in Christian Endeavor work, she has not only been superintendent of the intermediate and Junior Christian Endeavor societies of the Orange Presbyterian church for the past two years but has also been an officer in the county association.

Mr. Frevert has lived in Orange for the past nine years and has branched in partnership with his brother, Will Frevert, living with him on the home ranch at 802 West
Palmyra street until very recently.
He is an active member of the American Legion.

HUGE LIQUOR CARGO TAKEN AS 8 JAILED

SANTA BARBARA, July 17.— Eight alleged rum runners and ten automobiles containing 300 cases of Scotch whiskey, valued at many thousands of dollars, were seized early today when Sheriff James Ross and four deputies surprised the party transferring the liquor from a small launch to the shore along the Hope ranch, three miles west of here.

George Turner, a local man, was a member of the party. The other seven taken are believed members of a Los Angeles bootlegging organization.

The vessel, which had anchored 300 feet offshore, escaped in a hall of bullets fired by the officers. Turner, who has been under arrest before for Volstead act violations, refused to give the launch's name. He merely said that it was loaded at a Canadian port. He declared the liquor would have been on the way to Los Angeles within a few minutes had the officers not appeared.

Turner stated that another vessel belonging to the same international gang of booze runners, after unloading part of a liquor cargo here July 4, went down with 1000 cases of wet goods aboard when it struck a reef off Santa Rosa island while attempting to dispose of the remainder of the cargo.

PILOT IN AUTO CRASH DEATH BOUND OVER

C. A. Kidd of Los Angeles was today held to answer in the superior court to a charge of manslaughter, at his preliminary hearing in Justice J. W. Ingle's court at Orange. According to the testimony of Walter Breedlove of Corona, on June 15 Kidd's car crashed into his in the Santa Ana canyon and his son, Edward, 15, was fatally injured when he was hurled through the windshield.

Breedlove asserted that he was driving at the rate of twenty miles an hour when he saw Kidd's car graze the machine ahead of him at the rate of thirty miles an hour, crashing into his own car, which by that time had almost stopped, on the left side of the road.

Kidd's attorney, W. P. Redmond of Los Angeles, sought dismissal of the case on the grounds that Kidd, in trying to avoid a car ahead of Breedlove's, which was said to have been wobbling from side to side, was forced in self-defense to attempt to pass it on the left.

Immediately after the motion for dismissal was denied, Justice Ingle, at the motion of District Attorney D. G. Wettn for the state, bound Kidd over to the superior court, and fixed bail at $5000.

Beaten, Robbed of Auto on Way to Wed, But Gets Girl

PITTSBURGH, July 17.—Love triumphed over all obstacles when Frank Miller, 23, telephoned his fiancée, Miss Ida Jones, 21, that he was returning here on the next train from Wheeling for their marriage, which was prevented the day before, Miller said, when three men beat him into unconsciousness and then drove to the West Virginia city in his automobile.

Miller telephoned his bride-to-be today saying he met the three men when on his way to meet her. After he had taken them into his machine in answer to their request for a lift, Miller said the trio had slugged him. He awoke early this morning in a small hotel at Wheeling. He remembered faintly a terrific crash during the night and believes the car was wrecked near Wheeling.

The marriage will take place immediately after Miller arrives here, said Miss Jones.

Pair Desert Baby Girl Smuggled in Hotel in Valise

NEW YORK, July 18.—Brought into the hostelry in a Gladstone bag, a blue-eyed baby girl, not yet three weeks old, was discovered in a room of the Times Square hotel Forty-third street and Eighth avenue, apparently abandoned by a young couple who engaged the room earlier in the day.

They paid two days' room rent and strolled from the hotel, leaving the baby on a cot in the room, the bag lying close by. When a chambermaid, attracted by the baby's gurgles, went into the room, the baby looked at her steadfastly a moment and said:

"Boo!"

Police took her to Bellevue.

German Sailplane Remains Aloft for More Than 8 Hrs.

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, July 17.—Ferdinand Schulz established what is said to be a new German sailplane record during competitive flights at Rositten. Schulz was in the air 8 hours and 42 minutes and maintained an average altitude of 46.4 meters.

Three days ago Schulz established a coastwise record with a flight of 62 minutes along Koenigsberg bight.

Clifton Dunbar, a recent arrival in Orange county from Bakersfield, found himself interrupted today in his alleged career of dispensing bootleg liquor. Following an interview with Justice J. B. Cox, Dunbar faced a sentence of 500 days in the county jail, having been unable to pay a $500 fine demanded by the court. Dunbar had pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in his possession.

Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Ed McClellan, Deputies Ray Wal lace, Dan Adams, H. S. Warner, S. J. Scott and Constable J. L. Elliott raided Dunbar's place west of Westminster late yesterday. They found a still and a quantity of liquor, they said.

Teuton Women's Lack of Style Laid To 5 o'Clock Tea

BERLIN, July 17.—Five o'clock tea is responsible for the failure of many German women to have figures conforming to the latest Parisian mode, Dr. Ismar Boas, Berlin specialist, declared.

In German homes, in coffee houses and teas, Dr. Boas says, women indulge their appetite for sweets too much at tea time. Sweet cakes, cookies and chocolates, all sorts are eaten immoderately by women who probably fail to realize the flesh-building qualities of the food they consume while listening to Strauss waltzes and planning how to reduce their weight.

Mrs. Fleischmann Denies She Is to Marry At Once

PARIS, July 17.—Efforts today to confirm the report that Mrs. Julius Fleischmann would marry Jay O'Brien the polo player, early next month, proved unsuccessful.

Mrs. Fleischmann, whose husband, the American yeast king, died, had settled $5,000,000 on her, maintained silence following her previous denial of any intention to marry immediately.

Law Evader Now Is Model Citizen, Asserts Marshall

CHICAGO, July 17.—Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, said he was "for every proposition for preventing war," but was not a pacifist. He spoke at a meeting of the Sunday Evening club at which members of the Grand Army of the Republic were guests, and touched upon a variety of subjects. Among his outstanding remarks were these:

"The trouble with America today is that there are too many preachers legislating and too few legislators praying."

"Treaties, documents, constitutions and conventions will not bring peace. Get right with God and help other people do the same and there will be no more war in the world."

"The model citizen today is the man who can successfully evade the law."

"You send your fools to Washington and keep the wise men at home to whitewash the fence."

Auto Service Man Faces Booze Trial

SEAL BEACH, July 17.—James Arnerich, auto service station operator, was today awaiting trial on a charge of possessing and selling intoxicating liquor, following his making a $500 bond for his appearance, today. He was arrested following a series of raids here early in the week, when officers said they traced a marked five-dollar bill to his place of business. The trial has been set for 10 a. m. Saturday.

Necessary Raw Materials All to Be Found Close At Hand Is Claim

Santa Ana may, within basic reasoning, lay claim to being the best suburban industrial opportunity in the West, according to M. N. Alderman, industrial engineer, in his general industrial report of facts gathered in relation to the factors and conditions that effect all industry at Santa Ana, as they bear upon general problems of prospective manufacturers. This report has been submitted to the board of directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and its acceptance probably will occur at the first meeting of the board in August.

Alderman, who was employed by the chamber directors to make an exhaustive industrial survey of Santa Ana, devoted more than four months in gathering data from official and other reliable sources. The report presents only the most vital facts in constructive relations and is supported by data in the form of a supplementary index which includes statistics, recapitulations, charts, maps and special reports related to various types of industry.

Tells S. A. Advantages Alderman declares Santa Ana is the chief center between Los Angeles and San Diego, being founded October 1869 and made the capital of Orange county in June 1886.

Devoting a chapter under the caption, "Most Raw Materials Available," Alderman declares

Orange Broker Tax Reduced To $12 A Year

The Orange realty board has succeeded in having the city council of Orange reduce the occupational tax on real estate brokers to $12 per year instead of $24.

Willa A. Martin and G. W. Murphy, representing the board, appeared before the council and stated that the tax was originally made high to protect the brokers of Orange from outside competition, but that in that regard it had failed utterly and therefore a reduction was asked.

The council was unanimous in granting the reduction.

Realtors, Title Men And Bankers Plan Joint Meet

What promises to be one of the most important sessions of the leaders in the real estate and financial world of California will take place at Catalina Island, September 11, 12 and 13 when the California Title Men's association and the California Bankers association will hold conventions at the invitation of the President of the California Title Men's association, President Henry P. Barbour, of the California Real Estate association will send a representative to address a joint meeting on real estate legislation.

It is considered likely, under a plan now being formulated by the California Real Estate association, that several changes will be asked in the real estate laws of the state. Efforts are under way to formulate a program to harmonize the real property laws of the state to make for greater efficiency and speedier release on the part of the title companies.

REALTORS HERE MAY COMPETE FOR TROPHY

'Enthusiasm' Cup Donated For Contest at Annual State Convention

Members of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors were keenly interested today in dispatches from Pasadena to the effect that the Pasadena Realty board had voted to donate an "Enthusiasm trophy" to be awarded to the realty board which, at the annual convention of the California Real Estate association, shows the greatest enthusiasm.

The Santa Ana delegation will go after the trophy in earnest, a local realtor stated today. The proposal probably will be discussed at an early meeting of the Board of Realtors.

Vergil J. Morris, chairman of the publicity committee, has announced the rules under which the contest will be judged. The trophy will be held for a period of one year by the winning board, then to be rewarded by the California Real Estate association at the ensuing convention. Any board winning the trophy four times becomes the permanent owner of it.

Boards Are Ready. The Huntington Park Realty board recently awarded the prize for the best song on Huntington Park, which will be sung by that board at the Pasadena convention.

The prize was won by Everett L. Andrews, an insurance broker of Huntington Park, after more than 100 residents of that city had taken part in the contest which was conducted by the Huntington Park Realty Board.

Fullerton has named a convention committee to prepare banners and souvenirs to be used by the Fullerton delegates.

Whittier has been busy for three weeks already arranging for the convention in October, when gayly decorated automobiles will carry 100 from Whittier to the Crown City.

Richard Ainsley, president of the newly formed San Joaquin Valley Real Estate association, has promised that the towns from Stockton to Bakersfield will send a delegation of 500 in an automobile caravan, which will reach Pasadena the night before the convention opens.

Come From North. The nationally famous Oakland Glee club, which was one of the features of the convention at Washington and later made a trip to the principal cities of the United States, will head a delegation from the north. Eureka, Woodland and Sacramento will join with the Oakland and San Francisco boards in a caravan which will motor down by the way of the Coast route, picking up San Jose and Santa Barbara delegates en route.

Fred E. Reed, vice president-elect of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and President Allen, of the San Francisco board are in charge of the northern caravan, with Chris Jones of Sacramento looking after that delegation.

S. A. MERCHANT RETURNS FROM BUYING TRIP

Business Conditions About Same In East; Optimism Prevailing, View

Business conditions in the East have not varied in the past six months to any great extent, in the opinion of Charles Spicer, local dry goods merchant, who has just returned here after spending four weeks at the Chicago and New York markets, where he bought the fall goods for the Spicer store at 118 West Fourth street.

"Although I can not see any material change in business conditions, there seems to be a feeling that the early fall will bring improvement," Spicer said today. "I found out that the retail business was not suffering like the wholesale trade, but a spirit of optimism prevails which leads Easterners to believe that in the fall things will 'start up' in general."

"There seems to be plenty of money throughout the East, and building operations in Chicago and New York in particular are going forward on a big scale. Big buildings are being erected in large numbers."

"Personally I found a very advantageous market for the goods I was seeking. It was evident that the early buyers bought rather heavily and that there was not an over-production in merchandise. Some of the lines were depleted by early buyers."

"Aside from the general feeling that things are going to be good this fall, there is a feeling around Chicago that the middle western farmer will have much more money this year, as wheat and other farm product markets are on the incline."

The weather throughout the East has not been seasonable until lately. Rains and cold spells have been plentiful and it has not been until recently that summer weather has come to stay. This, of course, affected the market somewhat.

Spicer stated that business conditions in Santa Ana looked somewhat better to him since returning here. Customers are better satisfied, he declared.

"They seem to have forgotten their troubles to some extent," he stated. "There is a general feeling of optimism here now."

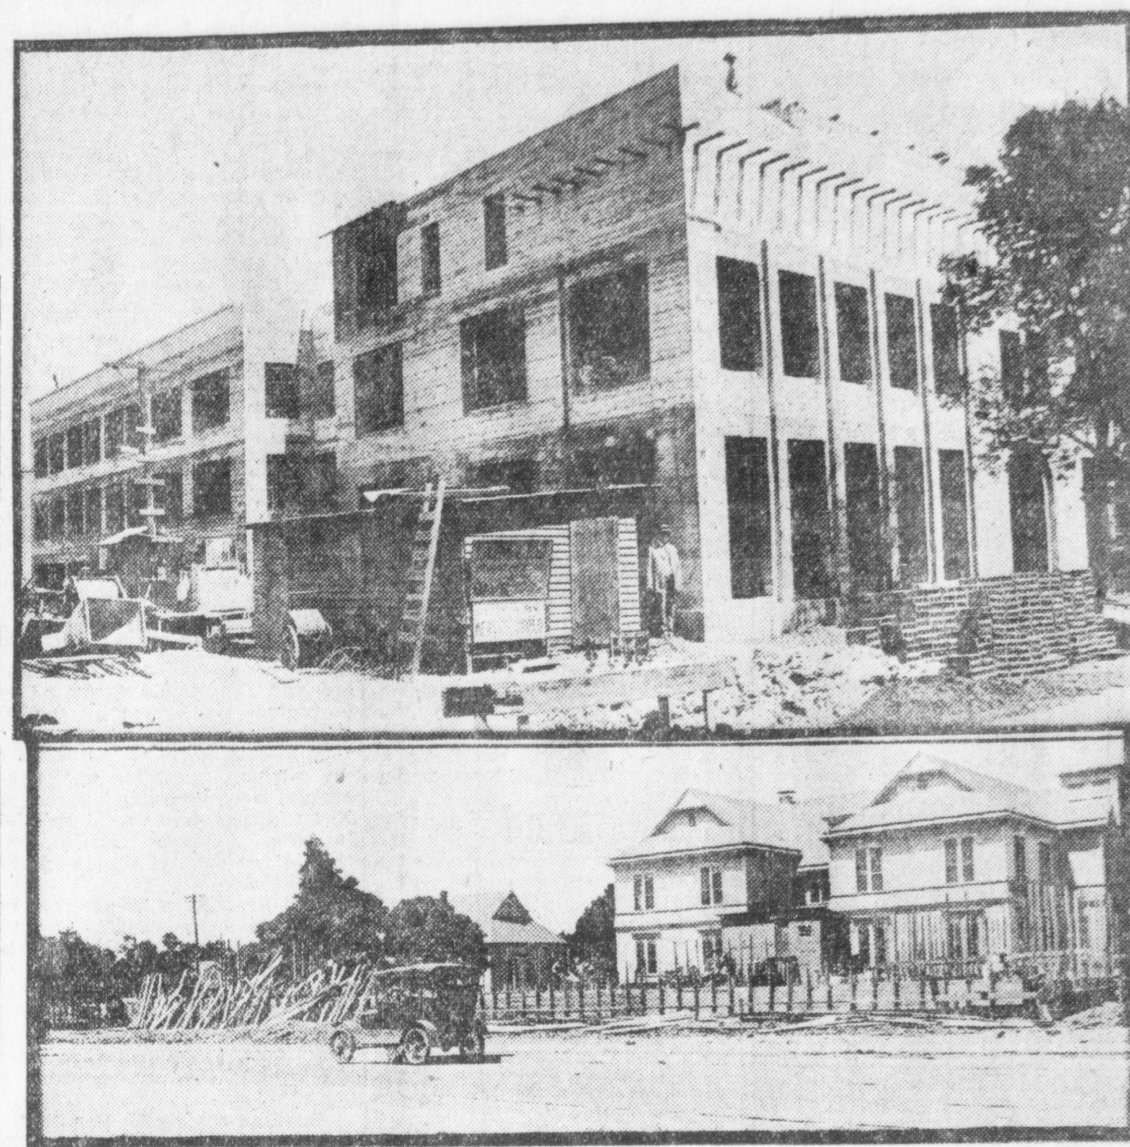

Although the country looked more green to him than at any time in the past, on his trips back East, according to Spicer, he was not in the East long before the cold and the rains became monotonous and he said he was glad to get back to California and its sunshine.

RESIGNS LIBRARY POST. No successor has been selected today for Bess Ranton Yates, whose resignation as assistant county librarian was accepted by the board of supervisors Tuesday. CAMERA MAN ON JOB AT NEW SCHOOL, JAIL

These views are not "a thing of beauty" just yet, but will prove "a joy forever" to persons here with civic pride. The upper picture shows the progress at the new $200,000 county jail on North Sycamore street. Sheriff Sam Jernigan, who will reign at the "prison palace," is standing in the foreground. The lower photo shows workmen pouring concrete for the foundation and walls of the $35,000 Roosevelt school at First and Maple streets. In the background is the old Roosevelt school building, which will be used for certain fast-growing departments of the institution.

GROUND HOG DAY IS MADE MAY 15

Ground-hog day by common agreement was declared to be May 15 this year, in Scott county, Iowa. During the past fifteen years ground hogs have been steadily increasing in this county until the frequent holes and burrows had become a menace to livestock in meadows and pastures, especially in the more rolling sections. The matter was given some serious consideration by farmers and the county agent, and May 15 was set aside as ground-hog day for an organized effort to eradicate the pests. While not all the work was completed on that day, the farmers doing it whenever they could get the time, reports to the United States department of agriculture indicating that fully 2,000 ground hogs were killed during the week. The method of extermination, which is recommended by the Biological Survey, was used, namely, placing a tablespoonful of carbon bisulphide in each hole and then stopping the hole with sod. Very few holes have been reopened, showing that in general the method was successful.

ALLEGED 'FEE' TAKERS UNDER STATE FINE

With many complaints coming to him of unlicensed persons accepting fees or commissions for real estate transactions in California, State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser today announced his determination to launch a statewide campaign to bring to account violators of the laws of the state governing such transactions.

The act creating the state real estate department made it a felony for any person to accept emoluments of any kind for participation in a real estate transaction or deal, unless such person is a licensed broker or salesman.

Commissioner Keiser has appealed to the secretaries of all the real estate boards and associations in the state, and to real estate brokers throughout the state, to cooperate with him in this matter. Complaints are to be asked for against all persons considered guilty of violation of the law, in the commissioner's effort to clean up the situation and vigorous prosecution of all such cases is promised.

"Notwithstanding the plain wording of the law," W. B. Martin, secretary of the local board said, "we as agents, often are asked to split commissions with unlicensed persons. Only this week a prominent woman of this vicinity refused to list with us because we would not give her half the commission in case of sale. She did not seem to realize that she asked us to break the state laws and make ourselves liable to prosecution and revocation of license. The Santa Ana board of realtors stands four square behind the laws of California and will do all in its power to see that they are upheld."

COMPANY TO HOLD SITES HERE NOW ASSURED

Incorporation Papers Will Be Filed Soon; $10,000 Is Pledged In Week

With subscriptions totaling $46,500 already reported and more virtually assured, the Industrial Land company of Santa Ana, an organization that will purchase manufacturing sites here and resell them to established industrial concerns at cost, today was a reality.

More than $10,000 was raised for this fund during the last week, it was stated. Subscriptions were taken with the understanding that the company would not be organized unless $45,000 was raised.

According to A. N. Zerman, chairman of the committee seeking subscriptions, several prospective subscribers are yet to be heard from. The total amount, he said, probably would reach even a higher figure before incorporation papers are filed.

By buying property at present values and holding it, later selling it to manufacturers at cost, plus carrying charges and interest to stockholders, backers of the movement are of the opinion that the concern will be in a position to offer something of unusual interest to manufacturing plants seeking a place in Southern California to locate.

City Confidence Shown

"This once more proves the confidence that our people have in their city," Zerman stated today when remarking on the fact that all of the $45,000 and more, had been raised. "It places Santa Ana in a position to do business with any worthy industrial enterprise that may wish to come here."

William H. Miller, industrial director of the Chamber of Commerce stated: "The success of the movement and the cordial reception that has been accorded the project by the business interests of Santa Ana were largely due to the hard work and enthusiasm of A. N. Zerman, chairman of the committee."

The jail structure will be ready for occupancy in October, it was predicted today.

Rush New School Work

School authorities in Santa Ana are of the opinion that never before has such speedy work been done on a new school building in the city, as is shown by the past two weeks' work on the new $85,000 Roosevelt school, being erected at the corner of First and Maple streets.

The new school, which will contain ten classrooms and which will be built of brick with tile roofing, will be an added attraction to the already superb school buildings in the city, aside from its capability of housing many more school children than the old building.

The old Roosevelt school has been moved to the rear of the lot and will be used as a unit of the new building. In case the new building is not completed before the September, the old structure will be utilized until the new one is completed, it was stated.

OPPORTUNITIES UNLIMITED IN FIELD HERE

manufacturers at Santa Ana enjoy a primary advantage of being in a position to purchase virtually all raw materials either from foreign, domestic or local sources under competitive conditions that assure the widest range of quality and a low average of buying prices. Continuing he says:

"Even prior to the recent development of Los Angeles harbor and the influx of hundreds of materials, the local supply was the basis upon which Santa Ana established nationally known industries and became the largest industrial point between San Diego and Los Angeles.

Based on Products

"The first stage of industrial growth during the agricultural era was based largely upon the local agricultural products of Orange county which have been second to none in volume and value per acre and per capita with an average annual production of approximately $75,000,000 since 1917. Most of the essential industrial utilities and a large volume of shipping have been established, and they constitute a favorable foundation for the second stage of diversified industrial expansion now developing.

"With the growth of this great industrial district and the 'overflow' of industries, the inclusion of Santa Ana therein has led to the development of local minerals, metals, miscellaneous materials and imports as a basis for the present diversification of manufacturing. The total value of materials used has increased from $2,079,413 in 1919 to over $6,775,053 in 1923.

City Well Located

"Most manufacturers that require a central point of distribution (consistent with cooperative site costs, etc.) to the largest markets of the western world should find Santa Ana well located geographically.

"Santa Ana is the chief distributive point for Orange county—the home market which possesses the greatest buying power per capita ($7,314) within the largest and fastest growing metropolitan markets of the West. It is a central distributive point as between Asia and America, as between eastern and western markets of the two Americas, as between the most west coast markets and as between nearest tidewater to the most points east of Covina in Southern California.

"The importance of this distributive advantage to Santa Ana manufacturers is emphasized by the fact that over 100 cargo carriers ply between Wilmington and San Pedro, and the largest coast markets each month.

Market is Developed

"Santa Ana has the advantage over north Pacific Coast points in markets of Southern Nevada, Arizona and southern states. It is on an equality in distribution from Salt Lake City to points north and east.

"Local industries have developed an advantageous market in Mexico.

"At the door of Santa Ana is the largest and fastest growing metropolitan market in the West. Within this area in 1923 were 2,500,000 permanent consumers; adjacent thereto were 1,000,000 more and the number of annual visiting consumers increased from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000. This local market of 3,500,000 people consumed $1,150,000 of products manufactured by over 5000 local industries. As further evidence of the volume of consumption, records show that railroads brought into this area 300,241 carloads and water-carriers delivered to the harbor 4,796,452 tons of products.

Transportation Center

"Santa Ana has been from the first, the chief distribution point in Orange county for the largest volume of shipping to the widest range of markets, and therefore, manufacturers may be assured of frequent service by direct routes at favorable rates.

"The Huntington Beach, Brea, Orange County Harbor and other Southern California oil and gas fields assure Santa Ana manufacturers of a large and sustained supply of industrial fuel.

"The competition between oil and gas has always tended to reduce the cost of fuel locally, because the installation of interchangeable burners enables consumers to select the lowest cost fuel that may be consistent with their manufacturing requirements.

"The surplus natural gas rate for large consumers is 30 cents per 1000 cubic feet. This price is subject to a discount of $3.13 per cent due to the reduction of the market price of fuel oil below $1 a barrel, with the consent of the state railroad commission so long as such oil prices shall prevail.

Fuel Oil Available

"Fuel oil is purchasable f. o. b. refinery either in tank car or truck lots at current market price. The average price for the years 1921-22-23 was 50 cents lower than the average of the preceding three years. The opening and development of many nearby oil fields makes this reduction possible.

"Hydro-electric power costs at Santa Ana are substantially as low as may be found in the United States. Each change of rates has been downward, as water resources have developed under competitive conditions to meet the requirements of rapid industrial development in Southern California.

"The water supply and costs are especially favorable at Santa Ana. There are several water bearing strata from a depth of 250 feet to 1300 feet. The Santa Ana city water plant recovers water at an average cost of 58-100 cents per 1000 gallons.

"The fact that Orange county has more acres per square mile under irrigation service than any other county, and the fact that the water is derived almost wholly from local underground sources indicates that water is plentiful.

Local Water Pure

"The reserve or potential surface water supply from the watershed of the Santa Ana mountains now going to the ocean in flood seasons is capable of being stored, should an additional water supply be needed. Tests indicate that 'local water' is 98 per cent pure."

"Strike losses are unheard of at Santa Ana. Mutual opportunities, for the attainment of sensible ambitions of both worker and employer without hardship on the one side and other, have developed the American plan of open shop most perfectly—without cost of restraint or need of cultivation.

"Even the low paid classes of labor at Santa Ana have more to show for their work than do a number of the higher paid classes of labor in most eastern localities. Reports of both local building inspector and the census of 1920 indicate that there are approximately sixteen families to each fifteen dwellings.

Building Costs Low

"Records also show that the average cost per dwelling in 1923 was $2625. Furthermore, the savings deposits of local banks are considered first in America for cities of this class. Notwithstanding the general prosperity of local workers, local manufacturers increased the value added to their products by manufacturing 69 per cent from 1919 to 1924. No other industrial center has brought forward the several basic records of normal conditions that excel the marks set by the Santa Ana standard and conditions of mutual opportunity and prosperity for the average worker and industry.

"Approximately 95 per cent of the workers, according to the last survey, were white and American. About 5 per cent are Spanish, Mexican, Japanese, Italian, etc. Only 4 per cent of the population are illiterate.

"The average of 22 per cent annual gain in population for the period 1920 to 1924 gives promise of plenty of labor for industrial expansion. With Santa Ana the center of the largest diversified labor supply between Los Angeles and San Diego, manufacturers need not trouble themselves about labor problems.

Building Saving 25 Per Cent

"A substantial saving in building costs of approximately 25 per cent is possible at Santa Ana. Manufacturers who come from the north, central, and eastern states may save the cost of special rail rates, the expense of setting building foundations, water, steam heating lines as low as the 'frost line' depth; and may save the cost of extra heating equipment and fuel maintenance.

"The untimely 'cutting out of power lines' and stopping of production by lightning and storm need not be feared by local industries.

"Maximum health, comfort and working efficiency of labor at Santa Ana is made possible by a non-discriminating variety of temperatures as between day and night, valley, seashore and mountains. These ideal conditions reduce cost of 'labor turnover', and losses due to ill-health, slowing up and irregularity of workers. The mean annual temperature is 63 degrees.

Industrial Sites Good

"Industries located along railroads within and adjoining Santa Ana for a total distance of more than fifteen miles. This constitutes the largest proven and potential industrial area having the fewest non-industrial improvements and lowest income value for other purposes that is to be found at any other industrial center of equal importance on the Pacific Coast. Almost five miles of this strip is situated within the city limits and ten miles of it is located outside and paralleling the city limits toward Orange County Harbor.

"Santa Ana is the nearest and largest industrial point to Orange County Harbor—a distance of eleven miles by road or rail. Over thirty-seven urban points are an average of 16-12 miles nearer Orange County Harbor than to their present port.

"Local manufacturers may look forward to quick and commodious shipping service upon completion of the Orange County Harbor. Facilities may be expected for large coastwise vessels, for special trans-oceanic lines, and for frequent light-draught feeder-service between the harbor and shipside of the vessels at San Pedro, which do not usually serve any two nearby harbors directly. Arrangements that are essential for a feeder-large service are now pending.

To Develop Harbor

"Early development of Orange County Harbor is assured by the support given by Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, and Los Angeles city. Engineers of the war department have completed a harbor survey. Orange county plans are under way to vote bonds sufficient to develop and open the harbor to large vessels at an early date.

"Santa Ana already has established some of the largest nationally known food product industries owing to the prolific growth and the large supply of a variety of high grade products of tree and soil in Orange county and back-country. Numerous opportunities remain in this proven industrial phase.

"Santa Ana is a proven textile center. Imperial cotton passes Santa Ana for export. Silk, wool, fute, hemp and sisal come by water and from a number of competitive foreign sources at lowest cost. Of 161,000 bales of cotton produced nearby in 1923, English and eastern mills took over 100,000 bales at a greater economic disadvantage than if it had been manufactured here and shipped by water routes in smaller bulk at lower cost.

Opportunities Many

"Opportunities for the manufacture of gingham, chambray, sheetings, muslins, silk goods, and the coarser textiles are exceptional at Santa Ana. A surplus of experienced textile help now here desire to work where living is best. They await that opportunity.

"The raw materials essential for the manufacture of glass are favorably located in relation to Santa Ana. With silica-sand just to the south, lime and limestone, soda ash, and potash a short distance north and east, and fire-clay and plaster pits nearby, manufacturers need not worry about raw materials. If Belgian silica-sand is preferred, that also is within a twenty-three mile haul from the harbor.

"The proximity of Santa Ana to virtually all raw materials via water routes offers many other miscellaneous opportunities for manufacturing in leatherware, mineral points, chemical products, fertilizer, oilcloth and linoleum, rugs, rattan specialties, rubber, plaster paris, lead, and tin products.

"The opportunities, which the recent availability of many raw materials have presented Santa Ana for diversified manufacturing, have been scarcely touched. A study of official records reveals that potent fact."

Last year our per capita consumption of fluid milk was 53 gallons.

CUT IN STATE OIL YIELD IS RECOUNTED

The production of oil in California for the first half of 1924 was 118,112,000 barrels, as compared with 146,338,069 barrels for the last half of 1923, a decrease of 28,226,000 barrels, according to a bulletin received here today from R. D. Bush, state oil and gas supervisor of the California state mining bureau.

"The average daily production at the first of 1924 was 700,300 barrels, declining to 619,500 barrels July 1 and shows a steady but gradual decline from the peak of production which occurred during the fall of 1923," the report continues.

"While the production decline of the state has been gradual the decline of three prolific fields, Santa Fe Springs, Long Beach and Huntington Beach, which produced a large proportion of the oil, has been rather precipitous, but this was offset by additional development of good wells in the Torrance field, and the resumption of closed production in the older fields of the State.

Storage Increases

"Consumption also declined and more rapidly than production with the result that storage increased from about 92,000,000 barrels on January 1, 1924, to about 100,000,000 barrels at the end of June.

"The export of California oil to eastern and Gulf ports for 6,738,000 barrels less during the first half of 1924 than during the previous six months. This amount accounts for practically all the storage increase in the state during the first half of the year.

"Oil field operations reported to State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush during the week ending July 12, show twenty-four new wells started, as compared with twenty-two during the previous week.

"Tests for water shut-off this week numbered thirty-six as compared with twenty-seven during the previous week. Yearly total to date 928; total to same date last year 1088.

More Wells Deepened

"Deepening or redrilling jobs this week numbered twelve, as compared with ten during the preceding week. Total to date this year 423; total to same date last year 371.

"Abandonments this week numbered fourteen, as compared with five during the preceding week. Total to date this year 278; total to same date last year 144."

Tests for water shut-off in Orange county this week included Well No. 2 of the Wonder Oil Co., Limited, at Richfield; Well No. 24 of the Standard Oil company at Huntington Beach; Pan-American Petroleum No. 6 at Huntington Beach; Petroleum Midway No. 8 at Richfield; Holly Oil No. 1 at Huntington Beach; Miley-Keck No. 12 at Huntington Beach, and Superior Oil No. 1 in the Orange County field.

The Trend of Modern Taste

THE new note in the furnishing of the American home is not the temporary vogue of any fad nor fashion of the hour. It is a distinct tribute to the good taste and discrimination of American women that the fine old furniture styles of the past are the most popular styles of today.

Our ideals govern not only the beauty and correctness of the furniture styles we offer, but they are also the ideals of our business policy which establishes sound valuation on a strictly quality basis.

SEES DIVISION OF BIG STOCK RANCHES

Cattle ranching methods in the United States have changed much within the last few years, with the passing of land into private ownership and the fencing of range. It will become very intensive, says the United States department of agriculture, as capital accumulates, prices of beef rise, and the importance of producing enough forage and providing sufficient range to keep the cattle through the winter becomes more pressing.

Ranches, says the department, must be big enough to carry from 100 to 300 head of cattle. This means that in many cases a ranchman must have permits to run a good share of his livestock on forest ranges. It is predicted that large ranches will be divided, and that on the other hand small ranches will be consolidated into units of sufficient size for economical operation.

Ranchmen are now mainly concerned with improvement of the carrying capacity of forest ranges. It is to their interest, says the department, that the ranges, instead of being exploited, should be made more productive.

ELECTRIC RATE PROTESTS YET ARE HEARD

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Continuing to present evidence denying that the Southern California Edison company needs a 20 per cent increase in electrical rates to make up losses sustained by the present power shortage, additional witnesses appeared before Commissioner H. W. Brundidge of the state railroad commission today. Final arguments are to be postponed until a week from today.

Representatives of dairy and agricultural interests testifying before the commissioner yesterday declared that increased power rates at this time would mean ruin for them. Los Angeles city attorneys and counsel for other cities, opposing the rate increase demand, contended that despite asserted losses this year, the corporation has made a large profit above the legal rate of return during past years and should be able to shoulder the burden of a deficit in the present emergency.

D. W. Pontius, vice president of the Pacific Electric railway, declared that his company could not afford an increase in electric rates.

A noted French authority has called this house a "little gem of architecture."

It is a seven-room modern home, based on the English cottage style. Its gabled roof with clean-cut cornice, and its outward-opening casements are typical. The enticing porch is made a real part of the house by clever handling of its roof, the absence of huge pillars is especially commendable.

The interior carries out the English motif in the designs and finish woodwork and walls. The living room, 12x22 feet, with casements on three exposures, is paneled with Elizabethan rectangles of oak, which are repeated in the eight-paneled doors.

An open fireplace of brick with a plain mantel shelf is centered on the long outside wall and flanked by windows. A built-in seat (whose hinged lid discloses a handy storage space) fills a narrow end of the room, between two built-in bookcases. Nor does the room lack large wall space, so essential to a satisfactory furnishing of a livable room.

This house is well adapted for entertaining, since the living room and the exceptionally large dining room may be made one with the hall by opening connecting French doors. The dining room is one of the most attractive rooms in the house. A pair of stained oak corner cupboards and a corner fireplace contribute to its interest.

The boxed stair from the hall is economical of space and cost. Housewives will appreciate the convenience of having the kitchen open directly into the front hall, so that they do not have to pass through any other room. The kitchen is well lighted and efficiently equipped with built-in conveniences. It is supplemented by a rear entry for the refrigerator and a rear porch.

The four bedrooms upstairs are not wastefully large, but are ample and airy. There are six closets, including one that consists of built-in trunks. These rooms are finished with southern pine, and painted.

A hot-air heating system is indicated in the plans, and a finished basement.

This house can be built for about $6500 or $10,000, figuring on the basis of its area in cubic feet at 30 cents a cubic foot.

He believed, he said, that stockholders of the Edison company should forego part of their dividends in a time when everyone else is suffering from the result of the drought. Pontius said, however, that even if the Edison rate increase is allowed, Pacific Electric fares will remain the same.

The only basis for an increase, Pontius declared, was that if the present electric rates were not sufficient to pay off the Edison bond interests then an award by the commission would be just. But he believed that the Southern California Edison company was sufficiently sound financially that decrease in their 8 per cent annual dividend would not affect their issuance of any future stock.

G. A. Atwood, president of the Yucaipa, South Mesa, and Western Heights Water companies, testified in regard to the difficulties in Yucaipa valley. Although farmers there had a good apple crop in 1923, he declared the foot and mouth disease had prevented marketing their products and losses were great.

He further stated that the water companies he represents would be forced to pay an enormous electric rate due to a low load factor resulting from the 25 per cent power curtailment.

PLAN NEW FAST FREIGHT LINE FOR GROWERS

Effective July 20 a new fast freight schedule for citrus fruit will be instituted by three transcontinental railroads, according to information received today by Orange county citrus growers. The new schedule will clip forty-five hours from the present time to Eastern cities.

The new schedules were arranged in Los Angeles at a conference between C. O. Cornwell, traffic manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, and representatives of the Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads.

By granting the request of the citrus growers for faster freight, the railroad officials declared, they were taking into recognition the large volume and value of the citrus freighting.

The new schedules will affect the movement of more than 60,000 carloads of oranges and lemons from California annually, and applied to this large amount of traffic will aid materially in maintaining an adequate supply of refrigerator cars to move the increasing crops of all fruits and vegetables from California.

With the shortened running time, each car is enabled to make more round trips and the effect of this is to increase the refrigerator car supply at all times, railroad officials declared.

Fruit growers declare they will be able to get their fruit to the market in better condition and on a reliable, dependable schedule of deliveries which will permit more efficient distribution.

Installs $10,000
Typesetting Plant

Roy C. Butler, employed more than two years in the mechanical department of The Register, is demonstrating his belief in the future of Santa Ana by installing what is described as one of the most modern and up-to-date typesetting plants in Southern California, at 401 East Fourth street, where he has leased a large room for a period of years.

The investment represents an outlay of nearly $10,000. The equipment includes all the latest type faces and machine improvements. The new business will be known as the Butler Inter-Type-setting company, Inc.

What Profits Do Knitting Mills Pay?

The principal products of The Orange Blossom Knitting Mill will be high grade silk hose and silk and woolen sweaters. The manufacturer's net profit on a pair of seamless silk hose is only 25c. On Full Fashioned silk hose the manufacturer makes a net profit of 50c. The average priced silk and wool sweater nets the maker $1.65. These are not imaginary figures. They are based on actual working conditions in the average mill. They are net profit figures any modern knitting mill would arrive at, using the modern cost-finding system. The figures sound like a very small margin of profit, yet they amount to handsome earnings in the aggregate.

Capacity Orange Blossom Knitting Mills, Per Week of 48 Hours, Working One Shift Only:

100 Doz. Silk Full Fashioned Hose, net profit per Doz. pairs, $6	$600.00
200 Doz. Silk Seamless Hose, net profit per Doz. Pairs, $3	$600.00
45 Doz. Silk and Wool Sweaters, net profit Doz. $20	$900.00
Total net profit per week	$2,100.00
Total net profit per year	$109,200.00

Distribution:

144,000 Shares Preferred, 8%	$11,520.00
184,000 Shares Common, 50%	$92,000.00
Surplus left on hand	$5,680.00
	$109,200.00

It would be perfectly practical to run the plant two shifts in lead of one, and that will undoubtedly be done, at least in certain seasons. It would be altogether possible and practical to run THREE shifts if business justified it. The possibilities are enormous. But we are not promising a definite return on common stock. It is not possible to predict profits accurately. In order to be ultra conservative, let us say that the plant will only be run ONE-HALF OF ONE SHIFT, or only 24 hours per week. Then the annual net profit would only be $54,600, to be distributed about as follows:

144,000 shares Preferred stock, 8%	$11,520.00
184,000 shares Common Stock, 16%	$29,440.00
Surplus left on hand	$13,640.00
	$54,600.00

We already have a plant in operation and the market established. Orange Blossom Knit Goods are now being sold all over the Southland. But if conditions ever become so depressed in Southern California that a hosiery mill is only justified in running ONE-HALF OF ONE SHIFT, then the average business man will be fortunate if he owns stock in something that is still operating at a nice profit.

Business Is Always Good in a Hosiery Mill
You are now offered Orange Blossom Knitting Mills stock in units of two shares of preferred and one share of common, all par at $1.00 per share, at the price of TWO DOLLARS PER UNIT. There is nothing about this proposition that you can find fault with. It shouldn't be necessary to SELL this. Local people ought to come and BUY it. It is an important development for Orange County and there is no telling the great possibilities it will lead to. You are asked to join your friends and neighbors in an enterprise, the soundness and desirability of which is perfectly apparent.

MANY ARRIVING IN S. A. SAYS SCHOOL HEAD

Inquiries concerning Santa Ana High school and Santa Ana Junior college convince D. K. Hammond, principal and dean, respectively, of the two institutions, that Santa Ana this summer is receiving as many new residents as it received last year.

"Every day," said Hammond, "we are receiving inquiries from new arrivals in Santa Ana. Eastern people come here, and if they decide to stay they immediately get in touch with the schools. They are anxious to know how Johnny and Mary will be situated with reference to schools."

Junior College Appeals.
"Particularly, we get many inquiries by letter concerning the junior college. Easterners looking forward to coming to California often want a city about the size of Santa Ana, and they want schools that will meet the needs of the family. The junior college appeals to a great many of them. They do not feel that they can afford to send their children away to college or the university. They want to locate in a city that can give their children the advantage of two years of school beyond the high school."

"So, the junior college is proving itself to be a drawing card among a very substantial, desirable class of people."

Many Call.
Hammond said that it is not at all unusual for two or three parents to call in a day at the high school, seeking information concerning the opening of school.

"One mother arrived here from the East one day and came to the high school at once to enter her daughters in junior college," said Hammond. "She thought junior college continued through the summer months."

Hammond was in Los Angeles today visiting the University of California, Southern branch, and interviewing Eastern educators who are lecturing at the southern branch this summer.

C. OF C. CHIEFS NAME TOPEKAN SECRETARY

On August 1 A. L. Olinger of Topeka, Kans., will become secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce to succeed James C. Metzgar, resigned.

The board of directors of the Chamber late yesterday voted unanimously to accept the recommendation of a special committee appointed some time ago to select a new secretary.

Olinger in person outlined to the directors what his experience has been and what his ambitions are in relation to the Santa Ana Chamber.

The committee, composed of F. L. Purinton, R. L. Brown and C. C. Cotant, recommended that Olinger be employed for a period of four months at $400 a month. If at that time he has proved satisfactory the directors will sign a contract with him for a period of years. Olinger declared it was his desire to follow that plan and the recommendation of the committee was accepted.

Olinger will come to Santa Ana a week before he takes office and work with Metzgar and be in a position to take up the reins August 1, he declared.

Little other business was transacted. Robert Shafer, who was expected to report on plans for raising $10,000 for a series of entertainments in Santa Ana next winter, did not appear.

CHOLERA TAKES BIG LOSS AMONG HOGS

Hog cholera caused a loss of more than $27,000,000 to the swine industry of the United States during the year ended April 30, 1924, according to a recent compilation by the United States Department of Agriculture. More than half of the total loss occurred in the Corn Belt states, where hogs are especially numerous. A comparison of the number of hogs with the loss caused by cholera in each state shows that the ravages of the disease are approximately in proportion to the hog population.

In computing the losses from hog cholera, specialists of the Bureau of Animal Industry estimate that 50 per cent of losses from all causes are due to this dread disease. Most of this loss can be prevented by the proper sanitation and the preventive-serum treatment. Bulletins giving full information on hog cholera, its control and prevention may be obtained on request from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Brea Man Bathes Feet in Stream, Fined $3 Per Toe

Harry Hall of Brea will be more particular where he leaves his feet in the future.

Harry and P. L. Taylor of Los Angeles yesterday paid $30 each for bathing their feet in a mountain stream that flows down Ice House canyon.

Hall and Taylor had been hiking and when they reached the stream they decided to cool and rest their feet in the stream. Taylor had barely waded in when a forest guard appeared and escorted them to Up-land where it cost them $3 per toe or $15 per foot for the privilege of "polluting a stream."

The fines were assessed by Justice George R. Crane after the weary wanderers had pleaded guilty to the charge.

URGE COLLEGE MEN TO STUDY BUILDING

Appealing directly to the college graduate to make some branch of the building profession his life work is the plan which has been adopted by the Associated General Contractors of America for the purpose of obtaining recruits for the sundry trades in the construction industry.

Believing that an organized effort to link desires of graduating students for substantial footing as they step from their schools with the need of apprentices in the construction business, the national organization, comprising the biggest builders in the country, has inaugurated a campaign designed to accomplish this purpose.

The executive secretaries of everyone of the forty-seven chapters of the national association have been directed by the national headquarters in Washington to take into the classrooms of the scholars who are about to graduate the story of benefits that can be derived by entering one of the building trades.

E. Earl Glass, executive secretary of the Southern California chapter, in commenting upon the national organization's plan, had the following to say: "The contractors of the country, by carrying into the schools the true facts concerning advancement in one of the construction trades, rather than following the white collar professions, can bring to the minds of many lads, who would otherwise do injustice to themselves by drifting along without definite aims, worthwhile decisions that will put them on the right road toward future success and prosperity and at the same time accomplish a task that will benefit the building business."

MISSISSIPPI BLAST LAID TO AIR LACK

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Insufficient air pressure used in cleaning the bore of the big guns caused the turret explosion aboard the battleship Mississippi off the California coast June 12, resulting in the death of 47 men and the injury of a score of others, according to the naval court of inquiry here today.

Safety doors not being entirely closed caused the fire in the upper handling room, the report said, adding that the presence of unofficial observers, "who crowded the passageways making exits more difficult, increased the casualties."

Confining its report to uncovering the cause of the explosion, the board made no recommendations.

The report is now under scrutiny of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and his technical staff, who will determine if there should be further action in connection with failure to comply with regulations requiring the closing of turret doors during firing operations, and also with respect to the presence of unauthorized persons in the turrets and runways.

LARGE COCHEMS PLANT ONE OF BEST CLAIM

Dealing in wholesale ice cream, the Cochems bakery and confectionery plant at 210 East Fourth street is one of the best equipped in southern California, and one of the largest. The equipment, all modern, equals anything of a like nature in Orange county, while the individual ice plant, located in the basement of the building, is said to be one of the largest in the Southland, Los Angeles, included. The ice plant has a capacity for 600 pounds daily.

The Cochems plant specializes in the manufacture and distribution of ice cream. All cream is made in the plant, and nothing but fresh raw fruits are used. No cooked fruits have ever been used in Cochem ice cream. More than 2500 gallons of cream is made each year at the plant.

A cooling system installed in the building does away with the handling of ice at the soda fountain. Pipes leading from the ice plant keep the ice cream and milk cold in the soda fountain, while other pipes lead to the display windows, so that ice cream can be kept in the windows, if desired.

Another piece of equipment new here and which is part of the Cochems plant is a three color ice cream filling machine. This machine packs creams of three different colors in pasteboard containers of various sizes, each color remaining to itself after it is put in the container.

The interior of the Cochems confectionery has been declared one of the prettiest in the city and everything modern in the way of soda rooms.

That Reflects the Highest Possible Credit

Every Door Opens into a Laboratory

This is one of the many hallways in the Research Building of the Union Oil Company at Wilmington, California. There are three full floors and 30 separate laboratory-rooms. The general appearance and atmosphere are those of a University building. Scientific research is the sole activity of many highly experienced chemists and engineers who are constantly carrying on their experiments in this modern laboratory.

THE effort of the Union Oil Company is always to produce the very finest-quality gasoline—a fuel that will, in use, reflect the highest possible credit to its producers.

To this end every known kind and grade of gasoline is analyzed, studied and compared through definite tests in a great laboratory given over to scientific research.

If improvements are suggested in this way they are made immediately in Union Gasoline.

Union Gasoline has the quality of non-detonation which means the elimination of "knocking" on hills, and in slow, heavy pulls, quicker acceleration, and a smoother, more vibrationless speed.

When the motorist uses Union he knows that this is the gasoline which will yield complete satisfaction.

YALE SHELL IS FIRST ACROSS FINISH LINE

Americans Continue to Win
At Paris; Vin Richards
Eliminates La CosteBY HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 17.—Yale's crew, representing the United States, triumphed in the Olympic contest for eight oared shells at Argenteuil this afternoon; Helen Wills defeated Molla Mallory Skelton, American swimmer, won the final event in the Olympic pool, smashing an Olympic record, and our boxers scored repeated victories at the velodrome making it another red letter day for the United States.

There were disappointments, too, in the defeat of R. Norris Williams at tennis and the failure of W. E. Garret Gilmore to repeat his victory over Jack Beresford in the single sculls. Two other American boats lost in the races on the Seine, but the day's average to American victors was a good one for our representatives.

Of the seven races at Argenteuil, the United States was victorious in the eight oared event and in the double sculls, in which Kelly and Costello, the American pair, showed the way.

As a result of the Americans' protest yesterday, in which they were solidly backed up by the British, the tennis players found the courts today decorated with shiny, galvanized water buckets, galvanized pitchers and plenty of towels. The organizers, realizing that withdrawal of Miss Helen Wills and Miss McKane would mean the breaking up of the tournament, had rushed these improvements.

Consequently, as the weather was cooler and ideal for tennis, the Americans and British agreed to waive the question of shower baths for the moment and go ahead with the tennis.

Vincent Richards, U. S. A., defeated Rene Lacoste, France, who was one of the finalists at Wimbledon, 8-6, 4-6, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

FAIR ISLE SWEATERS

To the youthful Prince of Wales we are beholden for popularizing the Fair Isle sweater or "jumper," as it is termed in England. Fair Isle is one of the group of islands constituting the world-famous County of Shetland in Scotland which weaves wonderful wools. The legend runs that ship-wrecked sailors from the Spanish Armada taught the natives of Fair Isle how to extract dyes from plants. The sailors, being Spaniards of Moorish descent, brought with them a taste for the Moorish school of decoration—those curious arabesques and convoluted curves which are seen today upon the true sweater hand-made by the inhabitant of romantic Fair Isle.

When this vivid-hued sweater first burst upon the startled vision of the natives of Fair Isle as a faded and faded article, it was not only to disappear, but it was to be a possession in the same sense that a genuine Panama hat is something to be cherished and clung to with for life.

A characteristic pattern of the real Fair Isle sweater is reproduced here, showing its bold and brilliant intermingling of colors and designs, each one of which is said to have a hidden meaning known only to the natives. The cross is a symbol frequently to be met. It runs through every theme like a recurring figure in a musical composition. Yellow, scarlets, purples, blues, greens, the most striking and splashy of colors are yet so cunningly alternated and blended, that a discordant note is never struck in the harpichord of harmony.

Naturally, the Fair Isle sweater has brought many imitations some of which are very creditably executed. The original article is expensive, whereas the reproduction, fetching much less, appeals to the man who must prudently calculate the cost of things. In addition to these sweaters, there are some really excellent ones made in America in the patterns and colorings of the North American Indian—zigzags, tribal insignia and the like. It takes a veritable dreadnaught in dress to wear any of these, but, then, today the cry is for color in every accessory of men's clothes.

BY BILLY EVANS
(American League Umpire)

"It's the climate."

That is the way the folks out west explain many of the phenomena of their great country.

Baseball magnates are wondering if the climate might not work the other way relative to some of the star players of that section.

During the past two years several major league club owners have been badly jolted in their dealings with players hailing from the far west. For instance—

John McGraw of the New York Giants paid $75,000 for Jimmy O'Connell in real money. The manager of the Giants figured O'Connell would win a place in the outfield and give the club a batting punch.

Most of the time since joining the Giants O'Connell has done bench duty.

Kamm Great Fielder
The Chicago White Sox paid a reputed price of $100,000 for Third Baseman Bill Kamm.

In the field Kamm has lived up to all advance notices, but hasn't done so well at the bat. Recently at his own request he was taken out of the game and given a few days' rest.

A year ago Connie Mack paid in the neighborhood of $50,000 for Third Baseman Sammy Hale.

While Hale had previously been tried by Detroit and sent back, Mack was confident he would add much strength to the Athletics. Allowing for his fielding faults, the leader of the A's was confident he would supply a batting punch to his club.

Hale Slumps at Bat
Last year Hale, who had batted around .250 in the Coast league, slumped to .228 with the Mackmen. This year when he failed to do even as well, he was benched in favor of Ricoda.

Probably the biggest disappointment of Mack's entire baseball career, was the showing of Outfielder Paul Strand, recently sent to the Toledo club of the American association. Strand was a $50,000 investment.

Last year, with Salt Lake in the Pacific Coast league, Strand led that organization in hitting with the remarkable average of .394 for 194 games.

Strand, in amassing that average, made 325 hits, including 43 home runs, 13 triples and 66 doubles. He batted in 187 runs.

Surely Strand will give my club a batting punch, thought Mack. With the Athletics he hit only a little better than .200.

They do say that the high altitude of Salt Lake City, where Strand played, plus the short fences, helped greatly in his 1923 Coast league batting spree.

"It's the climate," may be a proper explanation of the failure of some of the highly touted coast batting stars to come through.

Kinks o' the Links

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Judging by critical comments in the London press, the anti-nicotine league scored a notable victory when Walter Hagen walked away with the recent British open golf championship.

A leading critic writes that Hagen won because he did not smoke a pipe or a cigarette during the tournament. His contention is that the business of smoking with the incidental details of opening cigar cases and replacing pipes has a diverting effect on the player's mind, and therefore is destructive to perfect concentration.

This is an interesting slant on championship form, although there is an abundance of evidence to show that it is not necessarily accurate. Indeed, the professional in the American open was a pipe smoker of the most inveterate and vicious type.

Ted Ray smoked so lustily and with such devastating effect at Inverness, Toledo, in 1920, that the club management thought seriously of providing spectators with gas masks. Ray had a big black pipe clenched tightly between his teeth at the start of the round and it was still there, blazing hot, at the finish. It was in his mouth when he drove, when he approached and when he putted. Nor did the result of that tournament indicated in any way that his concentration had been in the least disturbed.

Jock Hutchison probably consumes more cigarettes to the square inch than any other last in the game, and we recall that Jock was good enough to win the British open himself several years ago. Francis Ouimet, Boston amateur, is something more than a moderate smoker, and it is recorded that Ouimet has won both the American open and amateur titles.

Bobby Jones has puffed soulfully and appreciatively on the delectable fog on more than one tournament occasion. And come to think of it, the great Vardon—who is to golf what eggs are to omelets—is seldom seen on the links without a pipe.

Kelley Druggist
Indoor Men Win

The Kelley Drug company's indoor baseball team of this city was scheduled to meet the Long Beach Acorn club's aggregation at Long Beach tonight.

The Kelleys defeated the Excelsior Creamery company squad at the Y. M. C. A. field here last night by the score of 10 to 6. Wilcox, V. Nelson, Stark, Thomas, Hilliard, Hill, Martin, Kolbe, Allender and L. Nelson played for the winners and will oppose the Beachcombers tonight.

The first Oxford-Cambridge boat race was rowed in the year 1829. The series to date embraces just seventy-five contests. Of this number Oxford has won 40 and Cambridge 34. In 1877 the race resulted in a dead heat.

The Orange County Title company today was leading the Orange County Bowling league, having moved into their comfortable chair last night without turning over a hand when Santa Ana Council, Knights of Columbus, took two out of four points from the Nickkey Hardware company which had been setting the pace. The games were rolled at the Broadway academy.

The "Caseys" won the first and second games but lost the third. When team totals were added to determine which aggregation got the extra digit it was discovered the Nickkeys had won by the scant margin of one point. The totals were 1980 and 1979. Both teams bowled with four men.

HELEN WILLS WINS EASILY FROM MOLLA

PARIS, July 17.—Helen Wills and Mrs. Molla Mallory, the latter representing Norway, had their long awaited battle on the courts this afternoon and the American girl won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, leaving no room for doubt as to her supremacy over her old rival. It was the first time Miss Wills and Mrs. Mallory had met since the California won the national women's singles title from the Norwegian at Forest Hills.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—When play in the Illinois State Tennis tourney is completed, William T. Tilden, ranking net star of the country, will head for the coast and a series of matches in Southern California.

Four Poly Girl Players to Defend Court Titles In South Monday

Determined to defend the court honors they won last year after a long and hard tournament, four Santa Ana girls, the Misses Josephine and Constance Crookshank, Thelma Patton and Frances ("Bilby") Cocroft will leave here Monday for La Jolla where they will participate in the annual invitational tennis matches there.

The local players, all present or past Santa Ana high school stars, have entered both the singles and doubles competition.

Last summer the Poly entourage captured both the singles and doubles championships from a field which included the leading woman players of Orange and San Diego counties.

The Santa Ana team will return here the latter part of next week.

THIN APPLES NOW
Thinning apples on overloaded trees prevents breaking branches and increases the size of the remaining fruit. Apples should be about six inches apart on the branches, say horticulturists of the Ohio experiment station.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION SELECTED

Elect Representatives to State Meeting

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 17.
—Jack Robertson, L. E. Mitchell,
I. T. Owens and C. M. Wardman were selected to represent the lo-

The American Legion post at the state convention to be held at Santa Cruz August 4 to 7. Officers, J. W. Owens, P. B. Hess, G. H. Strachan and R. C. Reynolds, were appointed by the Legion to act as alternates at the convention.

At the convention a large number of local Legionnaires will attend the convention from this city. Arrangements have been made by the local American Legion post to stage a Legion dance every Thursday evening at the local dance pavilion. The first of the dances will be given next Thursday evening.

Clyde C. Musgrave, proprietor of the hall, has announced that "Shorty" Speer's Snappy Six orchestra will play the music for the Legion dances. Special features are being arranged by the committee in charge of the dances and some fine times are promised.

A stag party fishing trip will be held by the local Legion boys in the near future. The matter was brought up at a recent meeting of the post and a committee was appointed to look into the matter and arrange for the trip.

News from other Newport harbors comes from San Pedro, where E. C. Childs was selected as the captain of the dance for the cruise, and also as chairman of the committee. Others who were appointed of the committee to assist him were T. C. Vincent and M. T. Owens.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON LANDING FIELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 1.—The establishment of an airplane field, assembling plant and training quarters for student flyers, as well as hangars for the planes, of the property at the corner of Ocean avenue and Twenty-third street has been distinctly frowned upon by the officials of the Huntington Beach company and Standard Oil company, who control the land, today.

He declared recently that the land situated at the corner of Ocean avenue and Twenty-third street would make one of the best flying fields in Southern California.

The matter was referred to the chamber of commerce here for action recently but has been held in abeyance until the membership can

On second thought, the organizers and other interests of the organization. An airplane field hop with stunt flights every week would be one of the best attractions a city could have, it is pointed out. Kelso has a number of well known stunt artists, wing walkers and parachute jumpers in his employ and is himself one of eighteen official timers for all air contests in the United States.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, J. 17.—"This is a fine beach, one of the nicest places to camp and spend one's vacation that I know."

"Huntington Beach is the only town where a person can come and put up a tent on the beach for the purpose of changing their bathing suit without being

People were in the camp fire over the county and state. So many of them have been here for one or two weeks. Others come to spend the day. All of them have a good word to say about the camping facilities they have found on the beach.

G. W. Crowell, of Riverside, is so well pleased with the place that he wrote for his wife and family to join him here.

EVENING SALUTATION

"When the hours are so still that time Forgets them and lets them lie
'Neath petals pink till the night stars wink
At the sunset in the sky.
It is July."

UNIFORM LAW OF NATIONS

Most Americans have overlooked the fact that while the rest of the world is restricted to immigration quotas, there are no bars put up against our nearest neighbors, Canada and Mexico. As a result, it may be expected that in the next 12 months we shall have more immigration from these two countries than from all the rest of the world together.

It will not be an entirely new thing. Canadians and Mexicans have been coming in very freely. From Canada last year the United States received 180,000, which alone is more than the net gain from Europe. From Mexico last year came nearly 50,000 officially noted and counted, and no doubt many thousands more unobserved by the immigration officers. The movement is likely to be more pronounced in this and succeeding years, as the movement slackens from other countries.

The omission of these neighbors from the quota list is not accidental. Congress does not care to erect barriers on our northern and southern borders like those set up in our seaboard ports of entry.

Canadians are welcomed because they fit easily and naturally into the political and economic life of the country. They are, with few exceptions, of similar blood to the dominant American strain. They are mostly good farmers and skilled workers.

Mexicans, on the other hand, while far more difficult to assimilate politically and socially, make good workmen for unskilled jobs, and help to supply the lack of crude labor which is felt more and more as the European supply is cut off. The higher class of Mexicans furnish some other worth while elements.

With good times, the states may draw heavily from both countries. Canada, at least, would rather have a quota, to keep her people at home.

UNBARRED IMMIGRANTS

The International Law Committee of the American Bar Association reports:

"Your committee believes that not the least benefit which a Permanent Court of International Justice would confer on the nations is to give precision by judicial decision to conflicts arising from different conceptions of international rights and international duties, thus tending to secure a uniform, universal application of them."

One of the biggest needs in the world today is a system of international law that shall be as clear and definite as the police laws of an American city. There was never any real agreement about the vague body of theories and customs known as international law before the late war, and that conflict brought still more confusion.

Leading American lawyers and judges realize that if the matter is left to chance and slow evolution, it may take centuries to develop the simple, clear and uniform code that is needed to enable the nations to do business together with a minimum of friction and live together in peace.

The World Court might greatly hasten the process. Nothing would give such immediate force and authority to its efforts as the whole-hearted co-operation of the United States, which is now advocated, under proper safeguards, by both of the big political parties.

WORLD BROADCASTING

Imagine a single system of radio broadcasting which would make one program audible at the same moment to the whole world. According to big radio men meeting in London recently, this is what we shall have soon.

They say it will be done by large, central stations using short waves, transmitted long distances, and small local stations receiving and rebroadcasting the programs on their own wave lengths. Tests already made between England and the United States are said to prove the practicality of this method.

It is an appealing prospect, to radio fans if not to the entire public. But certain important questions naturally arise, such as these:

Who will wield the tremendous power of communication and publicity involved in such a system, and under what authority? How will programs be arranged? What language or languages will be used? What can be done if any government or private interest seizes this big opportunity and abuses it? Where will final responsibility rest? Will the League of Nations or some other international organization have to take charge of it?

BOBBING THE CHINESE

The Chinese are to have their hair bobbed, and have it done thoroughly. At least, there will be a thorough job done in the province of Chihli, of which Gen. Wang Chen Ping is governor.

He has given his people two months to get rid of their queues voluntarily. During that time there will be a campaign of intensive education on the folly of the ancient custom and the desirability of obeying the governor's orders. There will be posters and handbills everywhere. The police will be utilized as propagandists. At the end of the probation period, any remaining queues will be forcibly amputated and the wearers will be fined a dollar apiece. The dollars will go to the police—a fact which doubtless insures enforcement of the law.

Thus may we see the universality of the present bobbing craze, which some conscientious objectors have thought to be confined to the Occident.

It may be that all the world is destined to go to the barber and be bobbed. When China, oldest and most venerable of civilized nations, sets the standard, how can this upstart New World resist?

SAVING THE LANGUAGE

One of the things that the National Council of Education was perturbed about during its recent sessions in Washington, D. C., was the prevalent ignorance of good English. The general use of slang has been one factor in reducing the English language to the low estate in which it is now found in this country. Many teachers, it is said, do not use, uniformly good

English, and naturally enough their pupils fail to do so. Examination papers in any section of the country are said to be full of barbarisms and bad spelling.

The English teachers of the land are urged to do something about this. Of course, the schools have been observing an annual "better English" week for several years past. It may have had some good effect, but it has not been wholly successful.

One writer, discussing this subject, declares that "by the application of well-recognized principles as well as scrupulous attention to minute details, a wonderful change can be effected in the course of a few years."

ENFORCING QUIET

The demand that unnecessary street noises be reduced is gaining strength. One community which has suffered much from the honking horns of all-night motorists and from needlessly unmuffled engines has recently ordered its police to enforce the ordinance against such things strictly. Other communities where ordinances exist but are not observed or where there is no legal protection against these nuisances will soon be driven to taking drastic steps.

Unrestricted noise breeds more noise. That is why the din in cities increases as the unavoidable traffic sounds multiply. Yet a very little thoughtfulness on the part of noise-makers could greatly reduce the racket. No one expects a city street with its many street cars and other vehicles to be as quiet as a country community at any hour of the day or night. Because of that very fact—the inevitableness of considerable noise—special efforts should be made to keep the confusion down to a minimum. And where courtesy and good sense fail to do this, police action should be taken.

Somebody suggests cork hats instead of straw hats. Good idea. They could be used as life preservers after rocking the boat.

No sooner does Mother Robin get one brood out of the nest than she starts right in raising another. And yet there are never too many robins.

Should Have "The Goods"

Fresno Republican
Wise advice is needed these days by growers who propose to ship their fresh fruit. Whether it is best to sell fruit on consignment or for cash, or to an auction market for wire payment, is a question to be determined by each grower in accordance with his knowledge of his goods and his circumstances.

But the one thing that every grower should know without fail is the financial standing of the man or firm to whom he is intrusting his fruit. There are too many men ready enough to gamble with other men's property. These fly-by-nighters have almost no qualifications but a ready tongue.

The grower should know something of the character as well as the organization of the man who proposes to handle his fruit.

He should have confidential relations with his banker or other man of business experience and acquaintance.

The same glib tongue is to be found among fruit buyers as in other vocations. But it is "the goods" that counts.

Olympic Games

Modesto News
The eighth modern Olympiad opened Sunday with very impressive inaugural ceremonies at the Colombes stadium in France. Representatives from two score nations are now competing on the field seeking glory and fame for their individual countries.

Each competing nation sent only the choicest of her sons to vie on the field. American has representing her the finest array of athletes ever sent in quest of world fame.

The games this year have more than ordinary significance because they will bring together representatives from all the ranking powers in the world. The express purpose of the games is to promote good world feeling.

It is altogether possible that they will go farther toward promoting world friendship than all the efforts of the diplomats and foreign council.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

THE NATIVE "MEDICINE MAN"
A physician and a lawyer were watching a picture one day depicting the rites of the medicine man in South Africa. The lawyer said, "Well, your profession has travelled a long way forward from such treatment as that given by these savages."

"Yes," answered the physician, "I'm pleased to say that it has, but sometimes I'm afraid that we've traveled too far."

"What do you mean?"
"Well, in our efforts to get away from superstition, and from the practices similar to what we see in the picture, we are placing the practice of medicine on the basis that some definite cause gives some definite effect. Now this is all right, where the trouble is something on which we can place our hands. When a tooth aches we have an X-ray taken and the tooth is removed. If the trouble is pain in the joints, the tonsils or perhaps some teeth are removed."

"An ulcer or cancer of the stomach give definite symptoms and the X-ray helps to clear up the diagnosis."

A definite cause and a definite effect.
However, this 'solid' basis is quite all right for many ailments, but how terribly it falls down in obscure conditions, in conditions where the mind enters largely into the matter.

"You have heard of the young physician attending the theater with his fiancée. The young lady had a sudden attack of hiccough. The physician took out a small white object, and told her to place the tablet under her tongue. The attack subsided in two or three minutes. Removing the tablet a few minutes later she was surprised to find that it was a small shirt button."

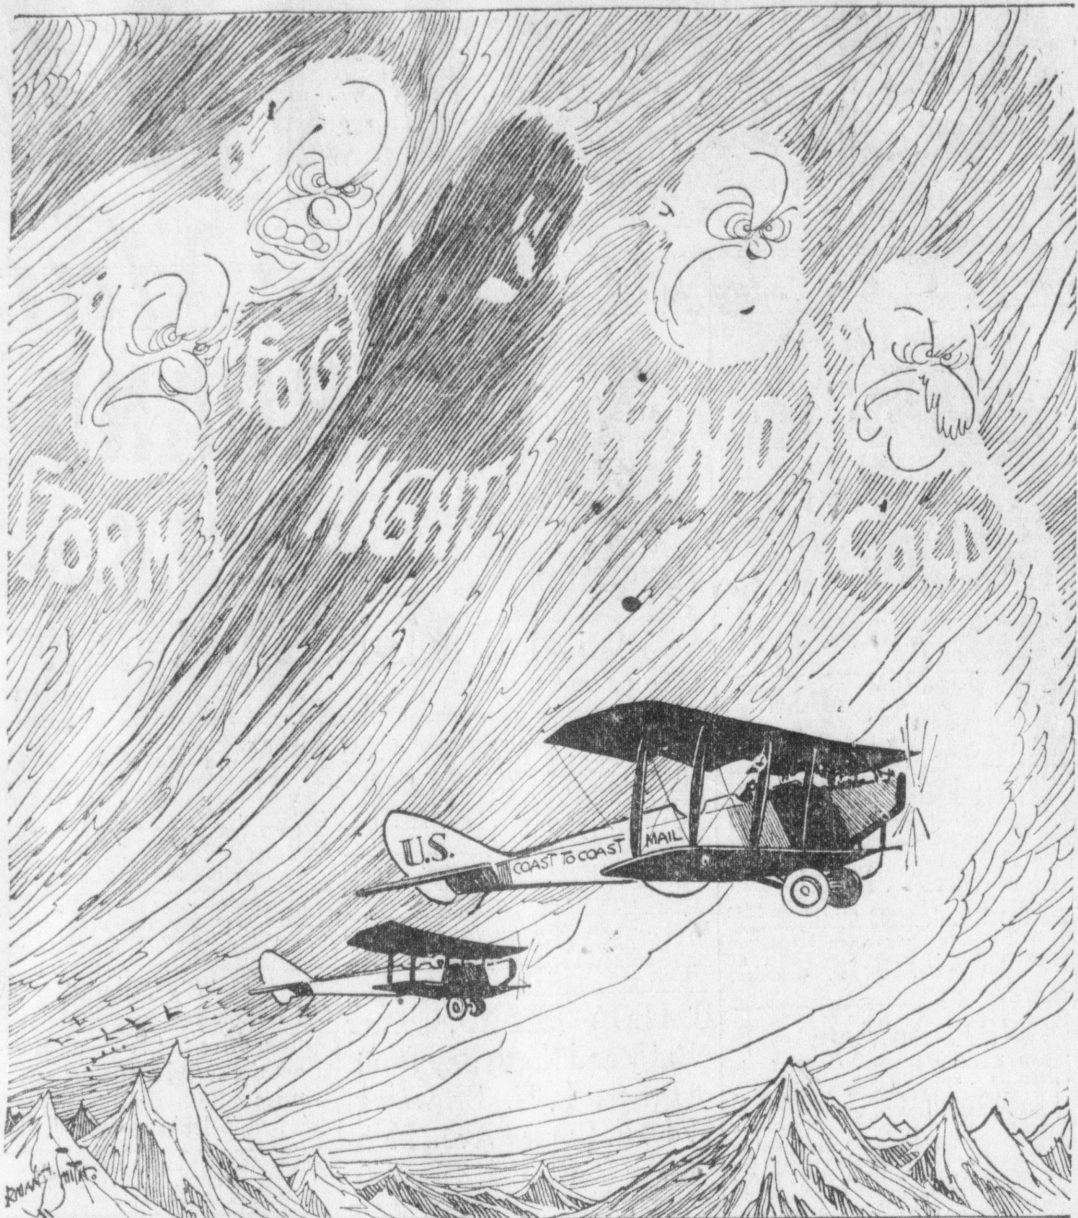

"Drugs that were practically useless have made marvelous cures at times, because the patient thought he was getting a stronger or even a different drug entirely."

And so my idea is that the physician must put his personality into every case of this kind. Consider the good old family doctor: How often his very presence at the critical moment has given the despairing patient a fresh hold on life.

"Why, take the simple matter of food. If it be well-cooked and daintily served it stimulates mouth and stomach juices. There is really no need to give an appetizing drug when you can appeal to the patient's appetite through his imagination."

"Thus, when a patient is excited and worried, what happens? His heart beats faster, he breathes more quickly, and any waste matter in the intestine must be thrown out at once. If then his physician talks to him, calmly pointing out that there is no need for fear nor worry, then the heart and lungs calm down also. Now if in the old days or in savage tribes the patient believed that all these superstitious rites were really helping him, you can readily see that he would become calmer and have a better chance of getting better."

Victory

ON A GIRDLE

That which her slender waist confined Shall now my joyful temples bind;
No monarch but would give his crown,
His arms might do what this has done.

It was heaven's extremest sphere,
The pale which held that lovely deer:
My joy, my grief, my hope, my love,
Did all within this circle move.

A narrow compass! and yet there
Dwelt all that's good, and all that's fair.
Give me but what this ribbon bound,
Take all the rest the sun goes round!

Conversation

By Thomas Fuller

I could suffer myself to be rudely handled by my friend, so much as to tell me that I am a fool, and talk I know not of what. I love stout expressions amongst brave men, and to have them speak as they think. We must fortify and harden our hearing against this tenderness of the ceremonious sound of words.

I have a strong and manly familiarity in conversation: a friendship that flatters itself in the sharpness and vigor of communication, like love in biting and scratching. It is not vigorous and generous enough if it be not quarrelsome; if civilized and artificial, if it treads nicely, and fears the shock.

When anyone contradicts me, he raises my attention, not my anger; I advance towards him that controversy, that instructs me. The cause of truth ought to be the common cause of one and the other.

I embrace and caress truth in what hand soever I find it, and cheerfully surrender myself and my conquered arms, as far off as I can discover it, and provided it be not too imperiously, take a pleasure in being reproved; and accommodate myself to my accusers, very often more by way of civility than amendment, loving to gratify and nourish the liberty of admonition by my facility of submitting to it.

In earnest, I rather choose the frequentation of those that ruffle me than those that fear me. 'Tis a dull and hurtful pleasure to have to do with people who admire us and approve of all we say.

DREAMS

Garbed in loveliness, at dusk they come, my dreams,
Loaned to me for th' enchanted hour
From evening's store of prized things.
Without them in their winsomeness my life would be A drab and sadd'ning pain, it seems.
At times they bring me swift recall of maidens I have seen,
Who give fair promise of a rich maturity,
But are most wondrous in their soft virginity.
Again they seem like peach bloom in their delicacy,
All hovered d'er with evening's purpled haze;
Or yet like fireflies, for one brief moment
Brilliantly they flare, and then flame out.
And seem to trail behind a deeper density
Because of their quick light.
Thus they come to me out of the dim-starred dusk,
Garbed in loveliness, and all my own—my dreams.

To Learn About Democracy

Kansas City Star

The prince of Wales is coming to America next fall, ostensibly to witness the international polo match, but it seems probable the real object of his visit is to study democracy.

Democracy is known to be a very simple system of government, and to require only a slight shove to start it off working automatically. America has made such a success of it, that the heir to the British throne, who has seen democracy's strides in his own country, naturally would want to prepare himself for his future duties as a king by learning all he can of the system. He is, of course, coming to the right place.

Americans are likely to be of the opinion generally that other peoples are unfitted for democratic forms in government, especially those people who have been accustomed to more or less autocratic forms—to being bossed, in a word. The British people, for example, Americans smile when they hear about democracy in Britain, because they know the British, despite some rather plausible features of their government, really are a bossed people. They not only have a king, but a house of lords. The very words are repugnant to democracy, of course.

Neither on Long Island where he will witness the polo match, nor in the nearby city where so many Long Islanders toil when they are not playing pool, will the prince find anybody who is called a king or a lord. New York, probably the highest expression of democracy in America, is governed by the plain people who express their democracy through an institution known as the Tammany Society. Tammany is nothing like the house of lords and its ruler is nothing like a king. He's just a plain sachem. Even that title is not commonly used, as democratic ears are sensitive. He's generally called a boss, therefore, which is a good democratic word.

It is to be hoped the prince will study Tammany and some day be able to bestow the benefits of its system on British democracy.

Equally being the basis of democracy, the prince will be interested to observe that in America there are no classes and that government therefore is impartially administered for the benefit of all. British democracy, we hear, hasn't been wholly successful in repressing the predatory interests, which are always trying to get legislation or some sort of special favor from the government. Isn't it in Britain, for example, that the industrial lords make the government vote them a subsidy, cunningly disguised under the name of protective tariff duties? Anyway, it's in some country. In that same country, wherever it is, the national legislature is divided into blocs representing these special interests, and each one tries to enact laws for its own benefit. The price won't find anything of that sort here.

If the British insist upon having a king, Americans will be glad to know at least that they are going to have one to whom the workings of democracy are familiar. The prince when he becomes king won't be deceived by any spurious democracy that designing politicians in Britain may try to put forward. Knowing the real thing he will insist upon having it for his people—if indeed they are able to pay for it.

Bank Note Plates

From banknote plates to battle-ship castings is the path taken by much of the steel used by Uncle Sam in printing stamps, government notes and paper money of all denominations. Each year, thousands of plates used for this purpose are scrapped, melted up and molded into yokes for eight-inch guns, castings for torpedo tubes and many other things.

Before being discarded, the plates are watched as carefully as money itself. They are sent to the different departments each morning and returned at night to the custodian of the original dies, which are never destroyed. After making about 50,000 impressions, the delicately engraved lines become worn so that further printing with them would be unsatisfactory. Under the direction of a committee of three officials appointed by the secretary of the treasury, the destruction and transformation of the plates take place.

Not long ago more than 20 tons of metal were taken from the vaults, hauled to the foundry of the United States navy yard, and there "cremated" under the watchful eyes of the committee. Popular Mechanics.

NO. 8—MISTER COCKADOODLE GETS DUCKED

Mrs. Yellowbill and her six children all climbed into a little car on a little track in Happy Go Lucky Park, where they had come to spend the day.

They were going to "chute the chutes." A "chute the chutes" is something like a roller coaster, only at the last it dumps you into the water and you get splashed all over.

"I hope you'll have a good time," called Nick as Mister Zip started the little car off with a push.

"Sit still and don't lean out too far!" called Nancy.

"We will!" "We won't!" quacked all the little Yellowbills happily. "Goody!"

Right ahead of them another little car was starting off on its track and in it sat Granddaddy Frog and his grandchildren.

He didn't know that Mrs. Yellowbill and her family were right behind him or perhaps he wouldn't have grinned such a wide grin. He took off his glasses and put them into his waistcoat pocket and settled himself for a nice ride.

The two little cars went rattling over bumpy places in the track, and dipped dips and shot around curves and really it was enough to take your breath away. For this was a very good "chute the chutes" and gave you a long ride first before it splashed you into the water.

Mrs. Yellowbill's six children got so excited that they quacked and honked until they sounded like a traffic jam on Main street.

They made so much noise that Granddaddy Frog soon heard them. "My goodness, boys!" he shouted,
